Helicopter Pilot Averts Tragedy

Some persons at the Missouri State Fair saw an unscheduled spectacular event Saturday when a helicopter reeled backward and smashed onto a parked car.

No one was in the auto and Paul V. Stinebring, 32, Manchester, Mo., the copter pilot, was uninjured. Damage to the aircraft and to the car, registered to Robert Webb of Jefferson City was extensive.

Stinebring told the highway patrol he "had insufficient cyclic control to keep the helicopter from backing up.

"I knew there was a lot of people behind me so I tried to get it to move to the right side away from the people."

The craft, one of several being used to give rides to Fair patrons, is owned by Helicopter, Inc., of Chesterfield.

Attendance for the first day of this year's Fair was set at 23,716, officials reported. No comparison can be accurately made with the first day of last year's Fair because it fell on Saturday, not Friday. However, 44,845 persons entered the gates when the Fair officially opened last year.

It was also reported that 5,000 season passes had been sold for this year's exposition.

Ron Perkins of Des Moines, Iowa, pushed his sprint car through 30 laps to a win Saturday at the International Motor Contest Association's Fair classic.

The victory on the half-mile oval was the first for the 25-year-old Perkins this year on the IMCA circuit. He started in the outside second row position and grabbed the lead on the 12th lap.

Minor cuts, bruises and cases of nausea made up the majority of ills treated by Sedalia physicians Albert R. Maddox and Albert J. Campbell during the first day and a half of the Fair.

Over 110 people had been treated by thw two-man medical team, aided by nurses, as of 10:30 p.m. Saturday.

The highlight of Sunday's activities at the Fair will come with the crowning of the 1972 Queen of Fairs in front of the grandstand at 7 p.m. Girls from every county in Missouri are vying for the honor to be relinquished tonight by reigning queen Cherry Barker.

A large country music spectacular featuring recording artist George Jones, Tammy Wynette and Faron Young will follow the coronation at 8 p.m. at the free grandstand show. Jones has been selected country music's top male vocalist three times.

A four-mule hitch contest in the coliseum will begin at 7 p.m.

Earlier in the day race car enthusiasts will be treated to the late model sprint stock car races on the ½ mile track. Races begin at 2:30 p.m. with time trials starting at 1 p.m.

Monday David A. Hamil, head of the Rural Electrification Administration will address the farm family dinner. Hamil

GOP Opposed To Busing

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The Republican platform declares the party "irrevocably opposed to busing for racial balance" in a draft agreed on Saturday by the party's platform committee.

The committee, drawing up the party document to be voted on Tuesday, the second day of the convention, has included this declaration, Chairman John J. Rhodes told newsmen.

The draft platform also promises to end economic controls as soon as possible and reform and simplify taxes. But no exact dates are offered.

The drafters also were preparing language supporting women's demands for equal advancement in government and business and for government-aided day care for the children of working mothers. But there was no plank for or against easing abortion laws.

Rhodes also disclosed that platform writers have dropped their 1968 endorsement of state right-to-work laws. This apparently is a concession to the AFL-CIO, whose president, George Meany, has declared neutrality in the presidential contest.

Rhodes conceded that political factors played a part in the decision not to revive the plank but said, "We have not repudiated the 1968 plank either." He repeated his denial that the White House had in effect drafted the whole platform, saying there was consultation but that the committee actually wrote the document.

Rhodes disclosed also that the platform calls for an investigation to determine what action should be taken to prevent national emergency strikes in the railroad and other transportation industries. Until recently, President Nixon has supported strong legislation, including a form of compulsory arbitration. The White House has withdrawn its support of the legislation as part of the campaign to woo labor, and the platform committee obviously had taken the cue.

The platform draft was being disclosed piecemeal in advance of the scheduled start of the party's national convention with an afternoon session Monday.

The texts of some portions were revealed while officials gave briefings on others as staff writers labored to write language embodying decisions made by the platform committee in a late-night session Friday. The platform will be voted on Tuesday.

The education plank says the party considers school busing for racial balance "counterproductive, unnecessary and wrong" and says the party would favor consideration of a constitutional amendment to outlaw it.

Rhodes said the platform also endorses voluntary prayer in schools.

It was understood also to endorse the principle of tax credits to help parents paying tuition to nonpublic schools.

Final shaping of the campaign document meant the preliminaries to the party meeting were nearing an end. Produced and directed by the White House, the three-day convention will nominate President Nixon for a second term on Tuesday night.

To Utilize Portions Of New Junior High

The Sedalia board of education Friday received written permission from City Building Inspector Woodrow Garrison to utilize portions of the new junior high school building.

Garrison indicated a week ago that he would not sign a certificate of occupancy for the new junior high school building. Classes in the district are scheduled to get underway Aug. 30.

The building permit Garrison signed is valid for only six months and excludes at this time occupancy of the gymnasium, instrumental music room, industrial arts room and swimming pool.

Four members of the school board, meeting with Garrison, architect Don Buller and Superintendent T. J. Norris at the building site Friday, took no action on whether to start moving equipment into those portions of the building okayed by Garrison.

The board will meet at 7:30 p.m. Monday at Norris's office to decide what action to take. The board has mentioned as one of its alternatives renting space for junior high school students at other buildings in Sedalia.

According to Norris, even if school personnel start moving equipment into the junior high school building Tuesday morning, the district may not have enough time to complete its job prior to the opening day of school.

"We're going to have to come up with a solution that will create the 'least mess,'" said school board president George Thompson, conceding that the junior high school building will not be ready by Aug. 30.

In other action, the board agreed to meet with contractor Don Bron at 10 a.m. Monday at the building site to try and work out an agreement with Bron concerning payment of a $66,000 installment of the construction bill.

The board decided last Monday not to pay Bron. The board's decision came after Garrison said he would not authorize the opening of the building due to what he

Truman Dam Project Included

(Democrat-Capital Service)

WASHINGTON — Sens. Stuart Symington and Thomas F. Eagleton reported Saturday a Senate-House conference committee had approved $84,123,000 for Missouri flood control projects, including $23 million for the Henry S. Truman Dam and Reservoir project near Warsaw.

The committee's figure was a significant increase over President Nixon's $19.5 million request for the Truman Dam project, the senators reported.

Symington and Eagleton noted that nearly $70 million has been spent so far to bring the $294 million project up to 22 per cent of completion.

"The $23 million appropriation agreed upon by the conference committee will carry the Harry S. Truman Dam and Reservoir project forward at more nearly the optimum rate. As the demand for electricity doubles every 7.8 years, it is more important than ever that we proceed full speed ahead on this project," they said.

Following the committee's action, the report was sent to the White House where it awaits the President's signature.

It was also reported that Congressional approval of the flood control measure will allow construction to start on the Meramec Park Lake in east central Missouri and provides the first construction planning funding for the Pattonsburg Dam in northwest Missouri.

Kissinger Reports On Talks

THURMONT, Md. (AP) — President Nixon received at his mountain hide-a-way Saturday a first-hand report from foreign affairs adviser Henry Kissinger on his mystery shrouded Vietnam mission.

Kissinger flew by helicopter to the Camp David presidential retreat immediately after his early evening return to Washington from the quick, round the world trip which spurred speculation of a possible breakthrough in Vietnam peace negotiations.

Kissinger reported on his trip at a dinner meeting with Nixon, Secretary of State William P. Rogers and Maj. Gen. Alexander M. Haig, No. 2 man to Kissinger on the National Security Council staff.

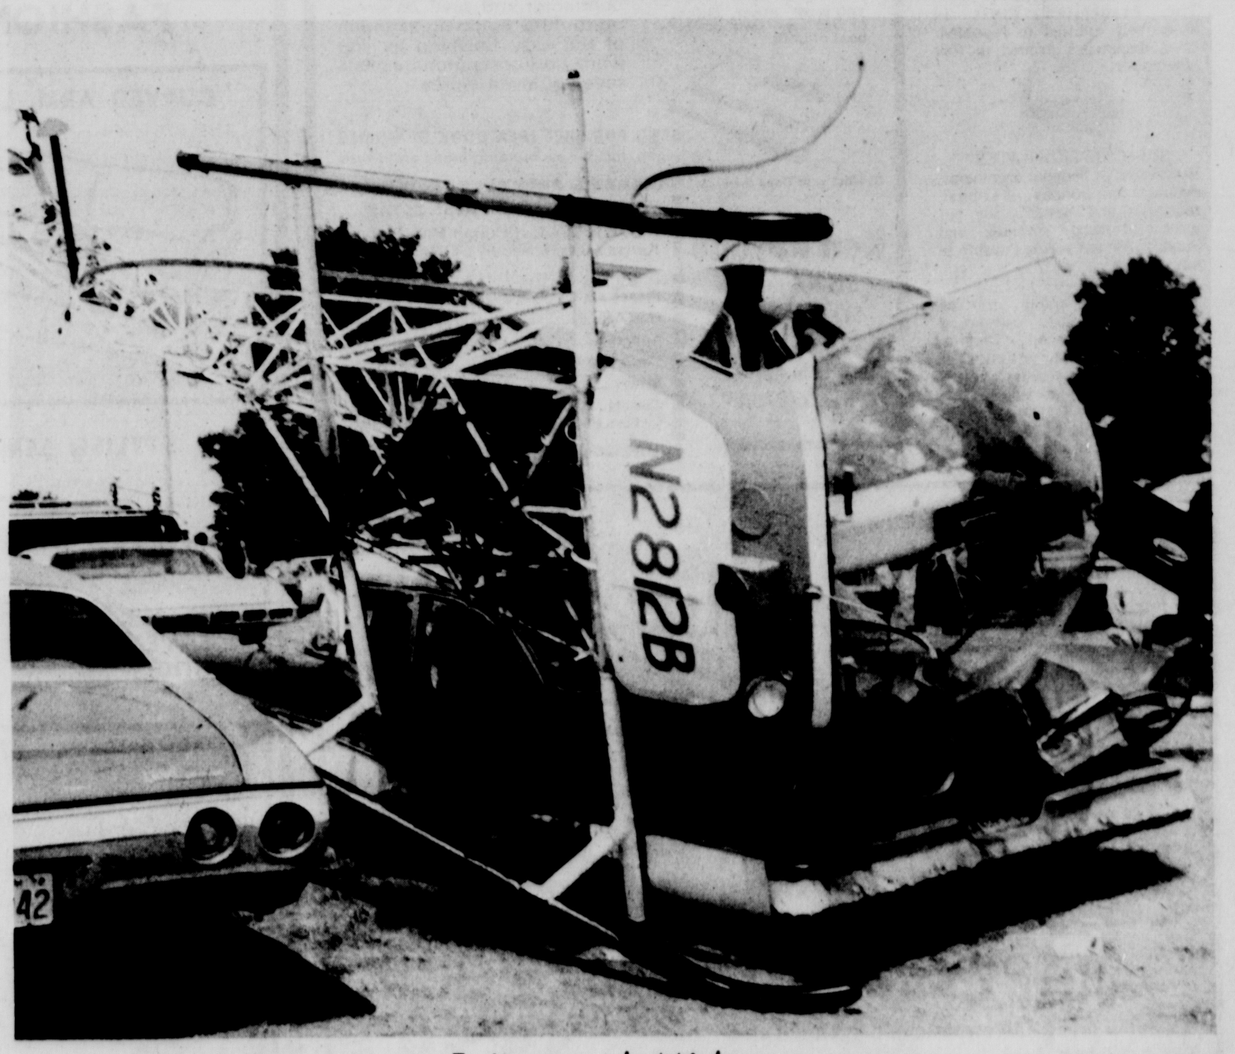
As Kissinger headed for the conference at rustic Aspen Lodge, officials in Washington and Saigon continued to refuse to give details of the presidential adviser's six hours of talks with South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu.

The talks in Saigon followed Kissinger's 16th private negotiating session in Paris with North Vietnamese officials. As Nixon's assistant for national security affairs flew from Paris to Saigon, North Vietnamese Politburo member Le Duc Tho was making an unusual return trip from Paris to Hanoi.

These travels sparked speculation that an agreement was near on a Vietnam cease-fire. But there was no confirmation, and no firm information was expected for several days—perhaps not until Nixon's speech accepting his renomination by the Republicans.

From Saigon, Kissinger flew to Tokyo to complete arrangements for Nixon's Aug. 31-Sept. 1 summit meeting in Hawaii with Japanese Prime Minister Tanaka.

The Camp David conference came less than 48 hours before the opening of the Republican National Convention in Miami Beach where Nixon will be nominated next Tuesday for a second term.



Fairgrounds Mishap

A helicopter, piloted by Paul Stinebring, St. Louis, crashed into a car at the state fair grounds Saturday afternoon after the helicopter landed briefly to unload passengers. According to a spokesman for Helicopter, Inc., Chesterfield, Stinebring was hovering over the landing area when a gust of wind blew the copter into the auto. No injuries were reported. Damage to the helicopter and auto were extensive.

Battle To Reopen Highways

SAIGON (AP) — South Vietnamese forces battled Saturday in an attempt to reopen three highways cut 25 to 60 miles from Saigon by enemy troops, possibly to mark a Communist-observed anniversary.

On other fronts, government troops launched a new drive to recapture a former military base in the Quan Loi rubber plantation north of the capital and claimed as many as 10 enemy tanks knocked out in fighting around Quang Tri City.

The cities of Hue and Da Nang came under shelling attacks again while the U.S. Command reported that American bombers flew more than 250 strikes over North Vietnam on Friday, hitting communication and supply lines and fuel depots.

The command also reported the loss on Thursday of a Navy A7 fighter-bomber to an enemy missile 29 miles southwest of the port city of Haiphong. The pilot was listed as missing following unsuccessful search and rescue efforts. It raised to 78 the number of U.S. planes lost and to 85 the number of airmen missing since full-scale bombing of the North resumed April 6.

Late field reports Saturday indicated fighting was still in progress around Trang Bom, a rubber plantation on Highway 1 about 25 miles east of Saigon and near Highway 4, in the northern Mekong Delta about 60 miles to the southwest.

Ann Landers

Padlock on Mouth Helps Her Diet

Dear Ann Landers: Last month I was 40 pounds overweight but I am losing a half a pound every day and will keep at it until I am down to where I ought to be. My story might help someone else, so please print it.

I weighed 117 when I married in 1955. I don't know how it happened but I kept putting on a little here and a little there, usually after pregnancies. Three weeks ago I was horrified when the scales registered 157 pounds! I went to my doctor and asked for some pills. He said nothing doing, insisted on a physical examination, found no organic problem and handed me a diet.

He then asked if I did much cocktailing, if I ate between meals, and what my favorite foods were. When I told him I eat less than anybody in the family he replied, "I hear that all the time." Then he instructed me to carry a pencil and paper for three days and write down everything I put into my mouth, even chewing gum. I thought this was crazy but I did it and it provided the key to the mystery.

I ate only a small bowl of cereal for breakfast, plus a cup of coffee and a piece of buttered toast. But then I found myself writing down, "Finished Tom and Maria's cereal — just a few spoonfuls...Finished John's toast — half a slice...Finished Nora's bacon and eggs."

Dinner was interesting. While preparing the chicken soup I ate a dumpling and a half-cup of noodles. Before I finished the salad, I had put away half an avocado and several "tastes" of salad dressing. I sampled the whipped-cream frosting on the cake and ate just a snidge of fudge sauce. After dinner I finished Maria's soup, Tom's salad and Julie's dessert.

It soon became clear that it wasn't what I was eating at meals that had made me fat, but tasting and finishing up the leftovers on everybody else's plates. Now that I know the facts, I've put an imaginary padlock on my mouth while cooking and cleaning up. It works like a charm.

Great? You'd better believe it, Ann. I feel light as a feather because victory is in sight. — Former Blimp In Bethesda

Dear Feather: Bravo. And now, all you overweight readers who "don't eat anything," take a lesson.

Dear Ann Landers: I wrote to you a few years ago to say my plants were dying. Then I told you my neighbor explained the reason. She said I didn't speak to them nicely, and their feelings were hurt.

I thought she was nuts, until she showed me how beautifully her plants were flourishing. I concluded there must be something to it and decided to give it a try. Well, Ann, ever since I've started to talk to my plants they've been thriving.

I kept this secret to myself for two years but now I am reading about florists and botanists all over the country who are having fantastic success after speaking to their plants, so I thought I would write again. This morning I read an article about a botanist who proved in an experiment that if you talk mean to a violet, it can faint.

I feel less like a fool now and I hope you will print this letter. — Green Thumb Thelma

Dear Thelma: My florist in Chicago says all plants, to keep healthy, need varying degrees of light, water and heat. When I asked him if he spoke to his plants, he replied, "Only when they speak to me first."

Do you feel awkward, self-conscious — lonely? Welcome to the club. There's help for you in Ann Landers' booklet, "The Key To Popularity." Send 35 cents in coin with your request and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to this newspaper.

Dollar Strength Shows Overseas Funds to U.S.

NEW YORK (AP) — International economists say the tremendous strength of the dollar in foreign exchange markets over the past two days indicates that funds from overseas are pouring into the United States.

"This could be the most important week of the year for the dollar," said William Wolman, vice president and economist for Argus Research. "I think the dollars are coming back and the higher prices for the dollar are proof everybody is buying."

However, the greater demand for the dollar overseas is not all good news for the United States. It could lead to higher interest rates on short-term loans.

European reports on dollar sales volume Wednesday ranged from "massive" in Germany to "very strong" in London.

The gain in the dollar price meant that other currencies went down. The most notable loss was in the German mark. It closed at 31.35 cents, down from 31.395 in the previous day. The pound, up a little, was the only major currency to gain more than the dollar. The French franc sank to its lowest figure in eight months.

Why is the dollar coming back this way?

Money men say that three factors are interacting to drive up the European quotations for dollars.

—Henry Kissinger's latest trip to Southeast Asia, which some interpret as indicating that peace is nearer.

—The improved figures on the U.S. balance of payments, announced earlier in the week.

—Inflation is growing more rapidly in Europe than in the United States.

Inflation overseas means that the dollar is now a better investment than some domestic currencies, so capital is being put into dollars as a hedge.

The reason that an inflow of dollars may result in higher interest rates for Americans is one of those paradoxical features of international finance.

What happens is this: The U.S. government has been financing some of its expenses by borrowing, in effect, from foreign central banks which have a dollar surplus. They have bought treasury bills, short-term IOUs, with their dollars.

Now, with their dollars being bought by overseas investors and sent to the United States, these banks will not be buying the treasury bills. That means the U.S. government will have to sell bills to U.S. citizens and institutions. To do this, it will have to raise interest rates to compete with private borrowers. This rise in rates will cause a corresponding rise in rates charged to these private borrowers.

In other words, the government will compete for the U.S. investment dollar, and competition will result in the higher interest levels.

DRESS FOR DEACONS

WASHINGTON (AP) — In guidelines for the new deacons now being ordained into the Roman Catholic Church, the American bishops have expressed hope the deacons "will resemble lay people in their dress and other matters of life style, avoiding clerical garb and other external signs which might lead people to regard them as a 'segregated class'."

'Silence' Grips Iceland

RAYKJAVIK (AP) — The most important word in the Icelandic language these days is POGN, spelled out in neon lights with two dots over the "O".

It means SILENCE, don't even whisper, Bobby Fischer and Boris Spassky are locked in mortal mental combat for the indoor think tank championship of the world.

POGN flashes in angry, glaring light above the green-carpeted stage whenever a cough erupts or a squeaky footfall disturbs the sepulchral silence of Reykjavik's Sports Arena where the world chess championship is daily being hushed up.

A slammed door or a crushed popsicle wrapper is usually enough to bring Gudmundur Arnlaugsson, the assistant referee, to his feet, peering out among the potted palms for the culprit, both hands raised to the rafters in supplication for silence.

Sometimes the POGN warning light goes on when neither the Brooklyn bad boy or the reigning Soviet champ is enthroned in his $470 black leather tubular swivel chair beneath the huge TV screen transmitting their chess moves to the distant balcony.

A world chess match is probably the only spectator sport retailing for $5 a seat that can begin with none of the players in the stadium. On days when the habitually tardy Fischer leads off the batting order with the white pieces, as he did in Tuesday's 14th game, referee Lothar Schmid gets the quietude off to a punctual start by turning on the challenger's clock. This is like starting off a World Series game with both teams still in the locker room, but the audience of a thousand or more falls hushed and expectant.

Ten minutes later, sometimes more, Robert James Fischer steps through the curtains to a flutter of applause, like a guest on the Johnny Carson Show, and stretches his long, elegantly tailored legs beneath the marble and mahogany chess board that in his latest psychological ploy has become "esthetically displeasing" to him. His first move is quick, decisive, arrogant.

"Queen's bishop pawn," runs a murmured gasp through the balcony where the journalists and international grandmasters move about on creaking tippy toes and converse in embalmer's whispers.

"My God," hisses Frank Brady, here to do a new biography of Fischer, "that's only the second time in his life he's used that opening, and both times here in the world championship. What guts."

Mayor Offers 'Help'

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — A 47-year-old man named Vernon walked up to the mayor and said he needed help.

"What kind of help?" the mayor asked Wednesday.

"I need money for a drink," Vernon said.

"That's the most refreshing approach I've ever seen," the mayor said. "Come with me."

They crossed the street and stepped into a local hotel's bar.

"By the way, I'm Larry Cohen, mayor of this city," the mayor said.

"You don't say," Vernon replied, adding that he would like a whiskey sour.

"How long have you been on this bender?" Cohen inquired, as he paid for the drink.

"A couple months," Vernon said.

"Come with me," Cohen said.

They walked back across the street and into City Hall, took the elevator to the third floor and approached a door with a sign that said "Mayor."

"You ain't gonna have me arrested, are you?" Vernon asked.

"Hell, no," Cohen said.

They went into the office. In two minutes, Cohen had located an alcoholism counselor for Vernon.

GOP Convention Opens Tomorrow

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Produced and directed by the White House, the Republican National Convention opens Monday for a three-day stand to renominate President Nixon and formally launch his campaign for a second term.

GOP scriptwriters Saturday completed a party platform that begins with an effort to woo Democrats disenchanted with their nominee, Sen. George McGovern.

With the ticket of Nixon and Vice President Spiro T. Agnew already set, the convention will feature oratory, entertainment, and the prospect of no more than minor political skirmishes.

One lingering issue is a dispute that involves not 1972 but the 1976 GOP convention. A delegate formula likely to preserve conservative dominance next time faces challenge from liberal and moderate Republicans who want more votes assigned to the most populous states.

But party leaders were seeking compromises designed to avert a convention contest on that issue, apparently with the approval of the administration.

Another potential floor dispute loomed over efforts at party reform to insure increased involvement of young people, Negroes and other minorities in future conventions.

There were compromise efforts on that item, too, in advance of a Sunday meeting of convention rulemakers.

But the over-all GOP convention scene was placid. Republicans talked of a November landslide and even of their long-shot chances of gaining control in Congress.

The atmosphere as the convention opening neared was in marked contrast to that six weeks ago, when Democrats met to nominate McGovern.

The Democrats were contentious, the Republicans relaxed. The air was that of a ceremony without suspense.

GOP mimeograph machines turned out stacks of statements about "five carefully planned and fast-moving sessions" due to last a total of 11 hours.

The script was timed to the minute to make sure the Republican show is staged in prime television time.

That, too, contrasts with the Democrats, who didn't get McGovern on the air for his major convention speech and unity show until 3 a.m. Eastern time, when most of the television audience had gone to bed.

The Republican keynote is a three-part affair led off by Sen. Edward W. Brooke of Massachusetts, the only Negro member of the Senate and a critic of Nixon's Indochina policy.

His keynote partners are Mayor Richard J. Lugar of Indianapolis, and Anne Armstrong, cochairman of the GOP National Committee.

The platform is to be adopted Tuesday afternoon, with the main event, Nixon's renomination, that night.

The convention winds up Wednesday night with Agnew's renomination and acceptance speeches by Nixon and his running mate.

termed the failure of the Bron Construction Co. to comply with city building code requirements.

Mrs. Jean Hausam, board member, said the board should not pay Bron until the building is completely finished.

At Friday's inspection, the board members present — Thompson, Mrs. Hausam, Mrs. Bill Dugan and Mack Kell, Jr., — all criticized the quality of work at the building.

The board went from room to room and reportedly found numerous tears in the carpet, indications of rust in the roof and incomplete touch-up work.

Buller assured the group that if the school board decided to immediately utilize existing space, Bron would still be responsible for correcting construction mistakes in those used portions.

Ad Taylor, industry chairman, says that UF packets will be delivered to various industries by Sept. 1. He asked that all industries try to complete their drives as soon as possible for the kick-off breakfast at 7 a.m. Sept. 13, at Bothwell Hotel.

Dr. Robert Edmonds, professional chairman, said all chairmen had been named in his division and Miss Marion Keens, residential chairman, reports that her workers would be named by Sept. 13.

The next board meeting will be at noon Sept. 29, at the Bothwell Hotel when Campaign Chairman Dr. John Owens will give a progress report on the drive.

Both youngsters also took top honors in class competition, and Blackford had the champion steer in the Angus division. The reserve champion Angus steer was shown by Darrell Ragland, Clinton.

A polled Hereford steer shown by David Mannigel, Palmyra, was named champion of the Hereford division, and the reserve champion, also a polled Hereford, was brought by Mike Gooch of Richmond.

Top honors in the 4-H FFA junior steer show went to crossbred steers shown by two 4-H girls.

An 18-month-old Simmental-Angus steer owned by Pamela Hullinger, 18, of Harris, was named grand champion of the 4-H steer show, then went on to win the junior show — the big honor in 4-H and FFA steer competition at the fair.

Pamela, the daughter of Mrs. Vera Hullinger, is a member of the Newtown 4-H Club in Sullivan County. She has been showing cattle for eight years and recently won the grand champion steer honors at a show in Amarillo, Tex.

A Yorkshire barrow shown by Mike and Kenny Rutter of Shelbina, was named grand champion barrow over all breeds in the 4-H competition. The Rutters also took all but two of the top spots in the Yorkshire division, showing the grand and reserve champion boars, the champion barrow and the reserve champion sow.

The reserve champion barrow, also a Yorkshire, was shown by Chuck Ausfall of Fulton. Ausfall had the champion sow and reserve champion barrow in the breed competition.

Robert and Lindall Perry of Bethel, Mo., almost swept the Duroc competition. Lindall had the champion barrow and sow and Robert showed the champion boar.

Brad Forkner of Horton, had the reserve champion Duroc and Debbie King, Ash Grove, the reserve champion sow.

Other divisions:

Four Persons Hurt In Accidents Friday

Four persons were treated at Bothwell Hospital following separate accidents Friday. All four were released after treatment.

The first accident occurred at 1:30 p.m. when a motorcycle operated by two youths apparently swerved into the path of a car at 12th and Thompson.

According to Sedalia police, a 1970 Suzuki motorcycle driven north on Thompson by Gary Hatfield, 16, 2300 East 10th, collided with a westbound 1964 Ford driven by Lambert Joseph, 61, 614 East 17th. Hatfield and a passenger on the motorcycle, Jerry Raines, 16, 700 East 10th, were injured. Hatfield suffered a broken right leg and Raines received minor abrasions.

The second collision occured at Highway 65 and North Grand Ave., at 10:10 p.m. The Highway Patrol said a southbound 1969 Chevrolet driven by Freda Mae Strange, 26, 230 South Quincy, collided with a northbound 1966 Ford driven by Charles Donald Smith, 39, Mexico. The Chevrolet was reportedly making a left turn at the time of the accident.

Both drivers received minor abrasions and bruises, it was reported.

Unusual Reception Line At Wedding

KNOB NOSTER, Mo. (AP) — Derek Phillips and his bride, the former Dorothy Cooper of Wichita, Kan., emerged from the Whiteman Air Force Base chapel Saturday — and there in two lines were Guerrillo, Prince, Jumbo, Prinz, Klotz, and Shane.

Airman Phillips requested the honor guard, but not the traditional line of soldiers with crossed sabers. The unusual reception line was made up of German Shepherds from the base's security unit where the groom works as a dog handler.

He said he wanted a patrol dog honor guard, something different to remember his wedding day by.

Births

Son, to Mr. and Mrs. Michael Parlapiano, Levittown, Pa., Tuesday at a Levittown hospital. Weight, 8 pounds, 6 ounces. Named Michael Neale.

The maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Neale, formerly of Sedalia, now of El Paso, Tex.

Son, to Mr. and Mrs. Joe D. Allen, 1622 South Sneed, at 12:26 a.m. Saturday at Bothwell Hospital. Weight 5 pounds, 14 ounces.

Police Receive Reports

Sedalia police received reports of a fight, a strong-arm robbery and two thefts Friday and Saturday.

An airman from Whiteman AFB was treated at Bothwell Hospital early Saturday morning after he was injured in a fight at the Horseshoe Bar, Fifth and Engineer.

According to police, Jerry Parker, 22, Whiteman A.F.B., and another airman were sitting at a booth with an unidentified woman when three men entered and tried "to start some trouble." The trio reportedly left, only to attack the two airmen when they left the bar a few minutes later.

Police told The Democrat-Capital the airmen reported they were both beat with a tire tool during the fight.

A spokesman for Bothwell Hospital said Parker was treated for a laceration on the forehead and was taken to Whiteman via a base ambulance. The other airmen, identified by police only as Gatewood, was not treated.

Charles Martin, Tahlequah, Okla., told police early Saturday morning that someone had kicked him in the face while he was in the horse barns at the fairgrounds and robbed him of $200 in currency. He failed to identify his assailant in a two-man lineup at the police station later the same morning.

Mrs. Ruth Rimel, Jefferson City, reported the theft of the front floor mats from her car while it was parked at Maxine's Gourmet House, 200 Industrial Drive Thursday night. The mats were valued at $12.

Charles Wansing, 121 East Third, reported a 20-inch electric fan, bed sheets, a safety razor, a can of shaving cream, after shave, toothpaste and shampoo were taken from his home late Friday or early Saturday.

Trash Fires Cause Three City Alarms

A fire on a lot behind Mid-Mo Electric Co., South Highway 65, burned a small area of grass Friday around 4:30 p.m.

According to a spokesman for the Sedalia Fire Department, the blaze began when burning trash got out of hand. Two booster lines were used to extinguish the fire.

The Pettis County Fire Department assisted city firemen.

Sedalia firemen responded to two calls Saturday involving burning trash.

According to a spokesman, a fire began at 3 p.m. when burning trash at 4107 South Highway 65 spread to nearby debris. Damage was termed slight.

At 9:37 a.m. a vacant house at 421 East 14th was set ablaze by sparks from burning trash. According to the spokesman, the owner of the house, Wilbur Hedge, extinguished the fire with a garden hose. Damage there was also termed slight.

Question

What should I do about paying the clergyman who conducts a funeral service in my family?

Answer

This is probably the most unresolved question of all those asked through the years. It should be answered, first of all, by saying that no clergyman of any denomination expects to be paid when it would be a hardship. This may best be illustrated by the fact that no one is ever denied the right to go to church because he cannot contribute to the maintenance of the church; if he has funds he is expected to pay his share.

Some religious groups have published suggested stipends. In some denominations the membership in a church and contributing to it presumes this pastoral duty.

As a matter of equity the clergyman must be compensated for his time and services just like any other professional person. If no policy or provision exists in the clergyman's religious group we will take care of this for the family as we are instructed and add it to the funeral account.

Energies Directed To Summer Festival

LOS ANGELES (AP) — For the seventh summer since the Watts riot, blacks are turning their energy to a Summer Festival celebrating black culture.

Like many other carnivals, this one has all the trimmings: rides, food and curio concessions, an art show, exhibits by the armed forces, films, plays, a parade — plus a moon rock, gospel music, and a concert by some of the giants of the recording industry.

Festival head Tommy Jacquette said the purpose is to confirm the community's cultural identity.

"We as a people comprise a nation — not a political but a cultural nation, much like the Jews in America today," he said.

The theme of black culture dominates. Men stroll about in dashikis, loose-fitting African shirts. Some women are dressed in ankle-length African-style robes, their hair wrapped in a wound cloth.

Art concessions and exhibits feature paintings and sculptures with African overtones — jungle foliage, a black arm wrapped in chains.

The neat, clipped grass of Will Rogers Park where the festival is held and the swept streets around it contrast with the scene seven years ago, in 1965, when five days of rioting and burning left 34 dead and $40 million in damages.

Streets then glistened with broken glass and already smoggy skies glowered with smoke from burning buildings. National Guardsmen patrolled with machine guns, firemen wore bullet-proof vests, and the people of Watts were afraid to walk their own streets.

Jacquette, 29, said armed revolution for minorities in America is insane. What's important, he added, is cultural revolution.

Jacquette, who has been a Black Panther and was for a time associated with a local militant group of blacks called "US," leaned back against a picnic table and surveys the bustling scene.

"No political activist or political group has been able to generate similar participation in terms of the number of people like the Watts Summer Festival," he said.

The festival, which started Wednesday, is expected to attract more than 100,000 people before it closes Sunday night.

The schedule of events includes plays and films like "Buck and the Preacher," "The Legend of Nigger Charlie," and a documentary on the life of Malcolm X, as well as a political forum, "Which Way Do We Go From Here?"

The Nitty Gritty Dirt Band, one of the country's leading musical groups, will be featured at the Missouri State Fair this year. They will share the spotlight with the Jackson-Five musical group. The band consists of John McEuen, Jimmie Fadden, Jim Ibbotson, Les Thompson and Jeff Hanna.

Mind Your Money

High Cost of Staying Alive

By PETER WEAVER

Last year we spent more than $70 billion on medical bills trying to stay alive and healthy. In 1950 we spent $12 billion.

How, hear this: In the same time period — 1950 to 1971 — American male longevity (remaining expected lifetime of 20-year-old men) dropped from 11th place in world standings to near 40th place. It's not that our men are dying much earlier, it's the fact that we are standing still while much of the rest of the world is progressing.

When we spend so much money on medicine, why are we in such poor shape? Dr. Jean Mayer, Harvard University nutritionist, says: "Cardiovascular disease — accounting for half the deaths in the 40- to 60-year range — depresses our international standing."

Dr. Mayer believes "we have returned to the days of the great pandemics, when a fourth or half of the population died of one disease." In a report, "Diet and Coronary Heart Disease," the American Health Foundation backs up Dr. Mayer with the grim warning: "An epidemic has struck."

So what can we do about it, other than wring our hands? Some of us have inherited family traits that tend to lead toward heart disease. Not much we can do about that except recognize the traits and be more careful. Some of us smoke too much and we can do something about that. Stop smoking.

We can also shift our emphasis on the kind of food we eat. Without making great, painful dietary changes, we can cut down on the fatty foods and the sugary foods we eat. According to the American Heart Assn., if we do this, we can lower our blood cholesterol and triglyceride levels. Too much of these blood substances may lead to heart disease.

I'm not going into how this blood chemistry works. You can get an excellent explanation with some tips on a better diet by visiting or writing your local American Heart Association chapter. Ask for the pamphlet, "The Way to a Man's Heart." It's must reading. You can also ask for, "Recipes — for Fat-Controlled, Low-Cholesterol Meals," another booklet which shows how to cut down on saturated fat foods while increasing the use of polyunsaturated liquid oils (corn, safflower, soybean and others).

You can get another, much fuller, recipe booklet, "Diets to Live By," from: Anderson Clayton Foods; W. L. Clayton Research Center; 3333 North Central Expressway; Richardson, Tex., 75080. It costs $1 and shows in great detail how to improve your "P-S Ratio" (increasing polyunsaturated fats while decreasing saturated fats). My local heart association chapter recommended it.

The big question most of us ask is who needs to worry — just men over 40? At first, most doctors thought blood cholesterol levels were the sole worry of older men. Now, according to Dr. Simeon Margolis, heart specialist at Johns Hopkins University Hospital, "We're finding it in young boys, even infants." He suggests that parents, at some early stage in a child's life, "have a doctor order a serum cholesterol blood test...Children should be screened for abnormal lipid (cholesterol and triglycerides) levels so that treatment can be initiated before irreversible vascular changes occur."

You can get an informative little booklet, "The Prevention of Heart Disease Begins in Childhood," by writing: Fleischmann's Margarines; Box 46F; Mount Vernon, N.Y. 10559. My heart association chapter recommended it.

Women? Unless they've inherited a tendency toward high cholesterol levels, most women are protected from it by female hormones. Up to around age 50, that is. Then they have the same dietary problems as men.

As you may have guessed, I have been through the heart disease worry myself. I've been checked and I've had my children checked. One son and I were found to have tendencies toward higher cholesterol levels. We're making changes — not dramatic ones — in how we eat.

Blind Man Chooses To Laugh, Not Cry

By PHIL THOMAS
AP Newsfeatures Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Asked to autograph a copy of his autobiography, Harold Krents laughed aloud, then asked, "Are you sure? It probably will look like a drunk rabbit running across the page. You'll probably accuse me of defacing the book."

Then he laughed again and signed—slowly, inching the pen along.

Krents is blind. A fact of his life that the 27-year-old has accepted on the basis that "you have a choice of laughing or crying. I choose to laugh.

"Blindness is not the end of the world. You can still function and make a challenging and exciting life for yourself."

His own life is a case in point. Born almost completely blind and becoming totally so by the time he was 9, Krents, a relaxed, amiable man, is a cum laude graduate of Harvard, a graduate of Harvard Law School, a member of the bar, and a working attorney. He also plays guitar, writes music and lyrics, was the inspiration for the male lead in the play and movie, "Bitterflies Are Free," and has written and published his story.

Krents says he spent 13 months writing "To Race The Wind."

"I typed it," he says. "I learned to touch type in the third grade. I didn't follow any writing schedule. When the book was moving I would just keep working and I wouldn't go to bed. When it wouldn't go, I'd let it go.

"Some parts went easily. But often when I got to unhappy moments in my life I bogged down. It took me two months to write of an incident in which I lost my first really good, close friend. His mother didn't think it was good for him to pal with me. I was 10."

Krents says of his book that "people either are going to like it or not like it—there's no middle-of-the-road reaction. That's because many people find any humor about blindness upsetting. Probably because they are afraid of being blind themselves.

"But you have to keep your sense of humor. The book isn't a tear-jerker about the loneliness and frustration of my life. Those things are in there, of course, to keep it honest, but it also has a lot of humor in it.

"Like the time I was classified 1-A by the draft. I'd had a student deferment but for some reason they changed my status. I could just see myself in a trench with a rifle—hitting a general every time I fired. Later, I did get reclassified 4-F.

"I think humor is so important. When people lose their ability to laugh they are in serious trouble."

Krents, who is married to a sighted girl, Kit, says that although he has published a book hs doesn't plan on a writing career.

"I'm a lawyer," hs says. "I like to think that my story will entertain and move people, but I'm not a writer and I have no such pretensions. Mine is a book of struggle, written with joy, and that's it."

SATISFIED BUT IRKED

TORONTO (AP) — Most English-speaking priests in Canada are satisfied with their work but would like to see some major changes in it, a study shows. It finds that more than 80 per cent of them would like to spend more time preaching and developing Christian community among the laity, rather than being kept busy administering buildings, personnel and raising funds.

Sedalian At Commission Gathering

Mrs. Marjorie Garansson, 201 East Broadway, a member of the Missouri Commission on the Status of Women, attended the regular meeting of the group in Jefferson City Friday and heard discussion of a published report concerning women political candidates in Missouri.

Other subjects to be given attention in the near future include a study of sex discrimination in public schools, with special emphasis on the role of books in establishing the image of women, and a study of survivors' rights and retirement and pension plans relating to women.

Regional meetings for the coming year were planned, including a spring conference in Kansas City to acquaint women in the western portion of the state with the Commission's function.

No Missiles for Capital

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional conferees have scrapped the idea of defending the nation's capital with Safeguard antiballistic missiles.

Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., disclosed the decision Friday and said the House-Senate conferees also agreed to postpone congressional action on the Nixon administration's request for $20 million to start work on a new missile warhead.

The project encountered opposition after some military specialists argued that it could give the United States a first-strike option, a policy the White House once discarded.

The actions came as conferees worked to compromise differences between House and Senate versions of a $20.9-billion weapons authorization bill.

A decision on the end-the-war amendment Sen. Edward Brooke, R-Mass., inserted in the Senate version of the bill was put off until next month when Congress returns from its recess. House conferees generally oppose the provision.

The conferees reached no decision on a Senate amendment allowing older military retirees to recompute their pensions, a step estimated to cost the government $10 billion over several years.

Stennis said the Safeguard site proposed for Washington won't be taken up by his Armed Services Committee again unless the White House renews its request.

Sen. Henry Jackson, D-Wash., was instrumental in scrapping the capital site, and it was thought the proposal would have been defeated if put to a Senate vote.

Stennis said Pentagon cost estimates ranged from $2 billion to $4 billion for a capital site. Critics said the ABM's value in defending population centers ranged from slight to none.

Accordingly, the beginnings of the Montana ABM site are being dismantled, but work will continue at the Grand Forks, N.D., site which defends a Minuteman III network of missile silos.

The House had approved the administration request of $235 million to begin work on the capital site.

In a related development, the Pentagon reported that a Sprint missile, a key component in the Safeguard ABM system, failed to perform properly in a test conducted in the mid-Pacific.

Fair Without Politics Idea Meets With Approval in City

Two-thirds of the respondents to the latest Democrat-Capital survey indicated they would favor a move to make the Missouri State Fair an autonomous, self-sustaining institution, rather than one supported by tax money.

One respondent who asked to remain anonymous wrote, "I believe the...Fair should be removed from politics. If it is not feasible to operate it as an independent enterprise, then I believe it should be operated on a non-partisan basis.

"At present, unless you are a Democrat in good standing with the Hearnes Administration, there is no reason to apply for a permanent position at the Fairgrounds, regardless of your qualifications. I am opposed to using our tax dollars to subsidize this patronage system when our state and county could use this...money to alleviate social problems," he wrote.

Specifically, the question in the survey was: "It has been suggested by several state officials...that the State Fair be removed from politics and government and be turned into an independent, commercial, and hopefully money-making operation. Do you agree?"

A Clinton resident who did not agree and who asked to remain anonymous said he had been attending the Fair since 1913 and wanted it to remain "as it is."

A Sedalia resident wrote, "I think our Missouri State Fair should stay under state government supervision. Now it is something for all Missourians to be very proud of. I don't think it would be good for Sedalia and our Fair to put it under a commercial operation.

"As I understand it, the Fair wasn't meant to be a money-grabbing operation. It is supposed to be a thing of beauty and competition. When we have a well-organized Fair now, why change it?" she asked.

U.L. Howerton, 1534 South Grand, who does not agree with this point of view, wrote, "Yes, the state Fair should be moved from politics because every time a new governor is elected they change the secretary (of the Fair). Changing the secretary is okay, but it should not be because of politics. If the secretary is doing a good job, he should not be asked to leave..."

Mrs. James J. Greer, Route 4, said, "The government runs enough without running the Missouri State Fair. I vote the Fair be removed from politics and government."

Jews, Christians and Moslems alike accept the biblical Abraham as an exemplary model of the man of unswerving faith.

DEMOCRAT-CAPITAL SURVEY

Question: The Sedalia board of education has indicated that if it incurs additional expenses, such as for rental space, because it cannot occupy all or part of the new junior high school, the general contractor for the building would be held responsible. Clerics Have Role Of Miami Observers

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — "Religious Observer" read the armbands. You see them in Flamingo Park and Convention Hall, in front of the protesters, behind the police and often in the middle.

About 350 ministers, priests and rabbis have taken to the streets here, hoping to keep things calm by providing a soothing presence during protests planned for the Republican National Convention.

With members of their congregations along to help, the group is called Religious and Community Leaders Concerned (RCLC).

"We just provide a reminder to all involved that impartial observers are watching what goes on," said Jack O. Cassidy, RCLC staff coordinator and a United Church of Christ minister. "Just being beside the police has a calming effect in confrontation situations. It works the same way on the demonstrators."

When the city last week opened Flamingo Park as a campsite for protesters gathering to greet the Republicans, the use permit actually went to RCLC. It was an indication of the organization's stature with both the protest groups and the establishment.

"We were very reluctant to take on the campsite, even as simply a coordinating group," said Cassidy. "Our primary role is that of impartial, third-party observers."

It was in that role of observer that Bob Burke, director of religious education at St. Timothy's Catholic Church, wandered through Flamingo Park at 3 a.m. Thursday. He talked with the Zippies, read their handouts and contributed to a food collection.

"A lot of them don't know who we are and just give me the cold shoulder," said Burke. "Being here is not the next best thing to contemplation, but it is a chance to help."

RCLC observers were on the scene constantly during the Democratic convention. They were present at every demonstration, every march, every time police and protesters met. They were inside the hotels and convention hall, watching how the private security guards handled dissidents. They wrote accounts that identified policemen by badge number and protesters by name.

They will do the same thing again this week, said Cassidy, and they will also have observers at the jails in case large numbers of people are arrested.

"We are not saying we will keep the peace," said Cassidy, "but knowing we are around might cause other people to keep things peaceful."

Recording Stars

Janey and Dennis, who record for Reprise Records, will perform at the grandstand at the Missouri State Fair Aug. 24. The show, which also features popular folk singer Melanie, is free to the public and is one of several similar attractions at this year's Fair.

St. Louis Teamsters Go Own Way

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The Teamsters Union in St. Louis has broken with a national union stand and endorsed Democrat George McGovern for President.

Last month the executive committee of the Teamsters International Union voted to support President Richard Nixon.

Friday the 14,000-member Teamsters Local 688 voiced its endorsement of McGovern.

Local 688 is headed by Teamsters International Vice President Harold Gibbons. He cast the only vote against a Nixon endorsement by the international union when the committee met earlier.

Legal Aid Society Is Recognized

EAST ST. LOUIS, Ill. (AP) — The St. Clair County Legal Aid Society has been reorganized into a major organization serving a wide area of southern Illinois.

The group, created Friday, is known as the Land of Lincoln Legal Assistance Foundation, Inc.

Gary Kolb, Belleville, is acting director of the new group. He said the Foundation will provide poor persons with "a viable institution to deal with the injustices that continually plague them."

The group will give legal help to residents of metropolitan East St. Louis, Alton, Madison, Centralia, Carbondale, Marion, Cairo and Champaign.

PHEASANTS MOWED DOWN

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Probably the biggest hazard that pheasants in New York face is the mowing machine.

During the peak of the state's pheasant populations in the late 1930s, mowing was not started until about the Fourth of July. By this time about 80 per cent of the pheasant nests had hatched.

It has since been found that June hay is better for cattle. Mowing now usually starts during the first week in June, when fewer than 20 per cent of the nests have hatched.

About the only solution is to leave unmowed land along fences, farm lanes and in odd corners around the farm, to decoy the pheasant hens away from hayfields.

DDT Substitutes Under Attack

By BOB ELLIOTT
Democrat-Capital Staff Writer

On June 3, William D. Ruckelshaus, Environmental Protection Agnecy (EPA) administrator, signed a ban on the use of DDT, to all uses except those where no substitute was available, to become effective Dec. 31. He said the latter effective date was to allow "an orderly transfer to substitute pesticides." Now some of those substitutes are also coming under attack by environmentalist groups and study committees.

Two in particular have come under the scrutiny of the Environmental Defense Fund (EDF) and were the subject of a petition to the EPA for the suspension of registrations for their production. The insecticides, aldrin and dieldrin, are commonly used and retailed in Pettis County for the control of grasshoppers, cut worms and wire worms, especially in early corn and other row crops.

John C. Dickulaund, of the EPA pesticides division in Kansas City, told The Democrat-Capital the chief objection to these pesticides is their persistence. "They stay in the soil from year to year and are carried off into water supplies such as ponds, streams and wells."

The environmental specialist also noted that aldrin changes chemically to dieldrin after an elapse of time and in the presence of moisture, and that dieldrin is especially traceable in milk, when dairy cattle have consumed water or ensilage that have been exposed to the chemicals.

An Aldrin-Dieldrin Advisory Committee was established to report to the EPA on the possible effects of the pesticides. Their study concluded that there is "no evidence of injury to humans from past or present usage, but fairly low levels of dieldrin have been linked with causes of cancer in mice and interference with reproduction in some birds."

The committee also suggested a control system including a ban on using aircraft for application, use near water and all uses in homes, barns, poultry operations, and other structures occupied by humans or livestock for human consumption. They approved usages where the chemicals were applied directly to the soil and for non-food seed use.

While aldrin proved to be a popular insecticide with local farmers, few pesticide retailers locally carried the dieldrin substance. Fred Karigan, Archias Seed Store, 106 East Main, told The Democrat-Capital, his firm still handled dieldrin, but that there was little demand for it and in light of the EPA studies the store did not intend to purchase any more of the pesticide.

In pointing out its effectiveness, Karigan noted that only a half pint of the insecticide is recommended to cover an acre of ground against grasshoppers. He also mentioned the carry over and run-off problems.

Other area pesticide dealers contacted told The Democrat-Capital little or no drop in the use of aldrin had been noted in recent years. Dieldrin has not been handled by them for the past several years.

Spokesmen for T and O Rock Phosphate Co., Switf's Farm Center, and the MFA Exchange Division, estimated as high as 75 per cent of their farming customers used aldrin and that 90 per cent of that usage was on corn crops, planted in early spring. All those contacted stated they were aware of the attempts to ban use of the insecticide but said they had received no official word on the subject.

Dickulaund said all uses except underground termite use has been cancelled, but he cautioned that this did not mean that the sale and transportation for sale of the substance is now illegal.

Dickulaund said "a notice of intent to cancel all registrations to produce these substances was issued long ago, but this calls for hearings on merits and effects of the pesticides. Another method of dealing with aldrin and dieldrin would have been to suspend registrations. This action would have brought an immediate halt to production of the substances."

He added that since the notice of intent to cancel had been served on the industry a total of 84 registrants (producers) had filed appeals to the cancellation on behalf of more than 390 products and derivitives.

But, in Dickulaunds' words, "it's sitting on the brink... we can expect a decision to cancel within weeks... and a suspension order is not beyond the realm of possibility."

None of the local dealers could predict what effect cancellation might have on livestock and crop production but one Department of Agriculture estimate noted that "without pesticides the United States would suffer a 25 per cent loss of livestock and 30 per cent loss of crop production."

Licking Makes It Last

Louis Harris Survey

Reforms Sour Positive Reaction

By LOUIS HARRIS

Lost in the furor over the dropping of Senator Thomas Eagleton from the ticket was the fact that by 52-25 per cent a majority of the American people had a highly positive reaction to the Democratic National Convention held in early July. The main reasons for the favorable impression among the public were the reforms which allowed for a much greater representation of delegates who were young, black or Spanish speaking, and women.

This issue of setting quotas on these groups in order to insure adequate representation from segments of the population who might otherwise not be named delegates has surfaced in the debate at the Republican convention which will convene this Monday in Miami Beach.

Here are other highlights of a special survey that tested reaction to the Democratic convention in retrospect after the Eagleton affair had been concluded:

✔ The most widely remembered parts of the Democratic conclave were the openness of the convention, the way Chairman Lawrence O'Brien handled the delegates, the orderly behavior of the new people who were attending their first convention, Sen. McGovern's choice of Eagleton, and the representation of the young, minorities, and women. All of these aspects of the Democratic convention were followed and recalled by between 59 and 70 per cent of the electorate.

✔ Least well recalled by the public was Sen. McGovern's acceptance speech, delivered in the wee hours of the morning. No more than 38 per cent of the voters had any exposure to it.

✔ Although the reaction to the convention was generally positive, a major exception was the unseating of Mayor Daley and his Chicago delegation. By 45-39 per cent, voters reacted negatively to this move.

✔ Out of 20 other major happenings at the Democratic convention, only two others were received unfavorably by the public, both closely related to each other: by 55-37 per cent, a majority felt that the Democrats were wrong not to oppose school busing to achieve racial balance and, by 57-36 per cent, a majority also tended to sympathize with Gov. George Wallace in his stand that he could not support McGovern running on the Democratic platform. After the Alabama governor bowed out of the race for 1972, his supporters went roughly 2-to-1 for President Nixon rather than for Senator McGovern.

Significantly, overall reaction from the public to the convention ran highest among those groups who make up the new coalition for change in the electorate: the college educated, the young, suburban voters, and those earning $15,000 and over a year.

If the Eagleton affair had not taken much of the momentum initially out of the post-convention McGovern activity, by any measure the South Dakotan would have come out of the Democratic convention in a much more favorable light. On its own merits alone, the Democratic convention will be hard for the Republicans to beat this coming week in Miami.

Airmail Post Office Set For Kaktovik

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) — The Alaskan town of Kaktovik will receive a new post office next Wednesday—by airmail.

A spokesman for the U.S. Postal Service said the preconstructed, 876-square-foot building would be shipped by air in two sections from Fairbanks to Kaktovik.

The spokesman said the structure, built in Anchorage, will be put on airplanes next Wednesday at Fairbanks and flown to Barter Island, where it will be unloaded and transported about one mile to the new location.

The unit is one of 10 being built this year to upgrade postal facilities at some of the outlying villages in the state, but is the only one being sent by air.

IMCA Stocks Featured On Half-mile Dirt Oval

International Motor Contest Association stock cars will be featured today on the Missouri State Fairgrounds' half-mile dirt track.

The entry list, which got off to a slow start in the pre-race preparations, has now grown to more than 50 cars.

Included in that list is current IMCA point leader Irv Janey, Cedar Rapids, Iowa. Janey has increased his lead in the stock car division to 1,250 points over current runner-up Gerry Harrison of Topeka, Kan. Back-to-back wins on Aug. 9 and Aug. 13 in Wausau, Wis., have provided Janey with his edge.

Janey has won three other events on the IMCA's circuit so far this season. Those races were copped at Huron, S.D., and two wins at Donnellson, Iowa.

Harrison, also entered in today's event, has posted two wins on this year's campaign — Topeka and Austin, Minn. — he leads Keokuk, Iowa's Gordon Blankenship by 205 points.

Blankenship, along with the balance of the current top 10 in the points race, is entered today. Those include Jim Hager, Liberty, Mo.; Thurman Lovejoy, Kansas City; Vern Mondry, Lake Elmo, Minn.; Jerre Wichmann, Kansas City; Carl Vander Wall, Ames, Iowa; Jim Still, Topeka, Kan.; and Roger Brown of Waverly, Iowa.

Janey is no stranger to the fairgrounds' half. He picked up one of his biggest paydays here in early May, when he finished second in the United States Auto Club's season opener.

In last year's night stock car race at the Missouri State Fairgrounds, he crossed the finish line in fourth spot. Earlier in the day, his Plymouth ran third in the rich Missouri International on the mile track.

Today's race is assured of a different winner than in 1971, when young Mike Derr, Keokuk, Iowa, piloted his Dodge into the winner's circle. Derr, along with his father, Ernie, will not be in the field.

Two other drivers of note entered in the program, which will see the qualifiers vying in 50-lap feature, are Don Cooper, Sedalia, in a 1972 Dodge Challenger, and Tom Frasher, Jefferson City, who will be behind the wheel of his 1969 Camaro.

Frasher posted his first IMCA stock car feature victory in the July 4 Kansas 200 at the Mid-America Fairgrounds in Topeka. The victory netted him $800 and has helped him stay alive in the current standings. Frasher has accumulated 215 points and ranks 14th on the list of the top 20.

With the temperatures expected to again soar into the mid-90's, the track should become dry-slick very quickly. If the field can withstand the heat, some of the half-mile records may fall.

Time trials are scheduled for 1 p.m.; the first of three heats is set for 2:30 p.m. Two other heats, as well as a match race a consolation feature, will precede the 50-lap feature.

Tickets for the race are now on sale at the fairgrounds' ticket office, located across the street from the Administration Building. Box seats are priced at $4, with reserved and bleacher seats tagged at $3.50 and $2.50 respectively.

Current IMCA Stock Car Standings

Over NCAA Penalties

KU Coaches Stunned

LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP) — Kansas Coaches Don Fambrough, Ted Owens and Bob Timmons were still stunned today over the fact the school has been placed on one-year probation by the National Collegiate Athletic Association.

The NCAA Council took the action Friday in Boston. The probation applies to football, basketball and track and prohibits the Jayhawks from post-season competition. Kansas also cannot participate in NCAA television programs.

Fambrough, the Jayhawk football coach, said he was sorry for the seniors on the squad since this would be their last chance of playing in a bowl game.

"We know the Big Eight Conference is at a point where four teams have a good chance of going to a bowl," said Fambrough. "We felt like we could have been one."

Fambrough said he told his squad about the action and that it responded with its best practice.

"Something like this can bring a team closer together, and you can actually be a better team," Fambrough said. "I think this is going to happen to us."

Owens, coach of basketball, said he was "just stunned with the penalty being so severe. But we'll just have to go on. The members of the squad are the ones who really suffer."

Track Coach Timmons said, "It's a very, very severe penalty. It's worse than too bad. I believe in rules, and they've got to be followed but the severity must fit the rule.

"It's a terribly severe penalty to lay on athletes who had nothing to do about it whatsoever. To penalize me, yes, but them, no. I should be the one to have to pay for it —not the kids."

Dr. E. Laurence Chalmers Jr., Kansas chancellor, said he was "gratified that a full-blown NCAA investigation uncovered so little to find fault with. I was, therefore, quite surprised at the penalty, particularly since part of the ground had been gone over before by the Big Eight Conference."

Chalmers said he was "also pleased to note that the more serious findings of misconduct related to members of the staff who have long since left the University of Kansas.

"Some excessive recruiting by some alumni of the university also was in the findings as well as good faith mistakes by present members of the athletic staff.

"In view of the complexity and multiplicity of the NCAA rules and regulations, I do not find such mistakes surprising."

Kansas was censured two years ago by the Big Eight Conference, and Friday's NCAA action stemmed in part from the old conference findings.

Two years ago, the conference cited Dick Tomey, formerly a Jayhawk football assistant coach, and John Novotny, assistant athletic director, for misconduct in recruiting of two athletes from McKinely High in Washington D.C.

At that time, the conference said Tomey erroneously certified the two athletes — football player Curtis Thompson and basketball player Mike Bossard — as eligible on the basis of fraudulent high school rank and Novotny failed to take action after discovering that something might be wrong.

Neither Thompson nor Bossard played in any varsity competition. Neither remained in school very long.

Two of the three charges against the track team involved Sam Goldberg, who attended Kansas one semester in 1970. Timmons purchased a $10 pair of track shoes for Goldberg, a decathlon performer from Oakland, Calif. The university also transported Goldberg's wife and child from the airport in Kansas City to Lawrence.

The other track charge involved Brian McElroy. It was charged that the university picked up McElroy at the airport and entertained him at the Big Eight Indoor meet. McElroy attended Kansas only one year before he transferred to Villanova.

Also involved was what was termed excessive recruiting by some of the university's alumni.

"I don't deny any of the counts," Timmons said. "I purchased a $10 pair of shoes for Sam Goldberg. I tried to get the members of the track team to look presentable while we were on trips, and it was difficult to get Sam to comply.

"He would wear track flats, and finally, I just bought him a pair of shoes myself."

Emphasis on Safety During Race Events

By BOB DEAVER
Special to The Democrat

The emphasis is on safety for the 1972 Missouri State Fair race programs, which are under the auspices of the International Motor Contest Association.

Again this year, the Fire Fighters Association of Missouri, an 80-man volunteer fire unit, will patrol the fairgrounds track. Fire Chief Robert Morrison, Lee's Summit, will co-ordinate the team assisted by Bill Westhoff, Jr., the state fire instructor at the University of Missouri-Columbia, who will direct the race track operation. Firemen with extinguishers will be stationed every 50 feet around the track, while a fire truck and crew will stand ready in the infield. The truck and crew are equipped to put out any fire, including gas, alcohol and oil and are a welcome sight for any driver circling the dirt oval.

To insure speed in handling any accident, $4,000 worth of telephone equipment will be in use. Six thousand feet of telephone cable will connect the starter, the judges' stand and the four corners of the track by means of transistor headsets, insuring that communication is co-ordinated around the entire circuit.

Standard in all IMCA races are the requirements for flame resistant uniforms for drivers, nose and tail roll bars for open cockpit cars, approved crash helmets and magnufluxing of critical parts of race cars to detect metal flaws which could cause a breakdown under racing stress.

And finally, in keeping with IMCA's outstanding safety record since it began sanctioning auto races in 1915, two ambulances will be track-side and two physicians will be on duty at the State Fair Hospital during all seven racing events.

Tiant's 2-Hitter Pilots Boston Past White Sox

CHICAGO (AP) — Luis Tiant, mixing fastballs, curves and changeups, pitched a powerhouse two-hitter and Tommy Harper drilled a home run as the Boston Red Sox beat the Chicago White Sox 3-0 Saturday.

The loss in the nationally-televised baseball game kept the runnerup White Sox one half-game behind the Oakland A's in the torrid American League West race. The A's earlier lost to the Cleveland Indians 5-4.

Tiant was untouchable through the first six innings. The chunky righthander retired the first seven batters before walking Rich Morales in the third inning. The only ball hit out of the infield was Pat Kelly's fly to center field in the fifth before Carlos May connected for a two-out double in the seventh.

After Tiant gave up his first hit, he struck out Ed Spiezio, one of nine strikeouts in the game. Tony Muser got the White Sox' other hit, a single in the ninth.

Tiant, 7-4, got all the runs he needed when Tommy Harper pounced on Tom Bradley's second pitch of the game for a homer. The Red Sox scored two more runs in the fourth as Rico Petrocelli scored on a wild pitch by Bradley, 13-10, and Tiant singled home a run.

The next three Gator Bowl games in Jacksonville will be televised by ABC.

Monzon Keeps World Crown

COPENHAGEN (AP) — Power-punching Carlos Monzon of Argentina, unbeaten in eight years, retained his world middleweight championship Saturday night, knocking out Tom Bogs of Denmark with a smashing right in the fifth round of their scheduled 15-round fight.

The end came after Monzon had floored Bogs for the third time in the fifth round. After each of the first two knockdowns, Bogs got up and took the count standing up.

But after he went down for the third time, English referee Harry Gibbs stopped the fight and ruled a knockout.

The victory was Monzon's 78th—and 55th knockout—in his 91-fight career. He has lost only three—the last a 10-round decision to Alberto Massi—on Oct. 9, 1964—boxed nine draws and had one no-decision.

It was the fifth successful defense of the 160-pound title for Monzon since he won the championship on a 12th-round knockout over Italy's Nino Benvenuti on Nov. 7, 1970. He has stopped every opponent in his title defenses and now has a string of 11 consecutive knockouts.

The 30-year-old Monzon, who was guaranteed $125,000 for the fight in Copenhagen's 15,000-seat Idraetspark Stadium, weighed 159 pounds.

Before the fight, he said he did not think he could knock out the muscular Monzon. But he added: "I don't think he can knock me out, either."

Early in the fifth round, he landed six hard rights to the challenger's head.

Monzon went to a two-fisted attack and pounded Bogs unmercifully. First, he knocked him down with a pulverizing right hook. Bots took the mandatory eight-count standing up.

Bogs tried to hang on, but Monzon pushed him away and sent him reeling to the canvas again. Bogs got up, but again he was staggering.

The third time he was floored, the referee halted the one-sided bout without the formality of counting.

It was the first time Bogs was knocked out.

Stahl's Wins District Softball Championship

(Democrat-Capital Service)

MARSHALL — Stahl's Speciality Co. of Kingsville rebounded from a 14-4 drubbing by defending district softball champion Whiteman Air Force Base, and grabbed the district title here Friday night.

Stahl's rode the one-hit pitching of Fran Barker in the final and deciding game after Whiteman AFB came out of the loser's bracket and handed Stahl's their first loss of the double-elimination event.

Barker hurled his one-hit gem and guided Stahl's to a 7-0 victory and the district crown.

Both teams now advance to the Missouri State American Softball Association finals, which open later this week in Jefferson City.

Whiteman will take on the winner of the Hannibal district tournament at 8 a.m. on Duensing Field; Stahl's will be in action at the same time on Vivion Field against LeGrand Feed of Poplar Bluff.

The teams were allowed to add two more players to their roseter for the state finals. Stahl's picked up two players from the Sedalia Mike O'Connor softball squad, pitcher John Fiene and shortstop Tom Hunter.

Although Whiteman AFB has not made it official, reports from Marshall indicated that the two additional players on their roster would be pitcher Jim Werneke, another O'Connors player, and Marshall Gibson's hurler Henry Deal.

Flat Creek Team To Invitational

The Flat Creek Baptist Church softball team has been invited to participate in the 12-team St. Joseph Invitational Softball Tournament this week.

Flat Creek, the winner of the recent Mount Olive Invitational Tournament and the team that finished in the runner-up slot in the Harmony Baptist Association playoffs, will be sponsored by the Harding Glass Co. of Warrensburg in the St. Joseph event.

They will take on St. James in the 7:30 p.m. game tomorrow night.

To date, Flat Creek has a record of 17 wins and eight losses.

Cincinnati Shuts Out New York, 5-0

NEW YORK (AP) — Johnny Bench crashed a solo homer and Denis Menke and Dave Concepcion added run-producing singles in support of Jack Billingham's three-hit pitching, leading the Cincinnati Reds to a 5-0 triumph over the New York Mets Saturday.

Bench's homer highlighted a two-run, three-hit Cincinnati second inning. Following Bench's blast, Concepcion scored Tony Perez, who had doubled and had advanced to third on Menke's sacrifice fly.

Tribe Uses A's In Ending String

CLEVELAND (AP) — Alex Johnson and Graig Nettles smashed home runs as the Cleveland Indians ended a three-game losing streak with a 5-4 American League baseball victory over the Oakland A's Saturday afternoon.

Johnson clubbed his seventh homer of the season and Nettles hit his 10th of the year to highlight a three-run Indian uprising in the fourth inning. The victory snapped the A's winning skein at four.

The Indians jumped to a 2-0 lead in the first on a walk, Chris Chambliss' single and Johnson's double. A's starter Vida Blue, who suffered a recurrence of a groin infection, worked only the first inning.

Ray Lamb, 3-4, earned the victory while Gary Waslewski, 0-2, was the loser.

Bengals Improved Over Last Season

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Cincinnati Bengals, boasting the most depth in their five-year history and a defense upgraded by the draft, should better their 1971 performance.

"We shouldn't have to sneak up on teams to beat them this year," Cincinnati Coach Paul Brown says of his team, which slumped to a 4-10 mark last season. "We think we are going to be very competitive."

The Bengals, who won the American Football Conference Central Division title in 1970, dropped six games last year by four points or less and the defense took much of the blame.

But in the draft, they picked three players who stand a strong chance of starting. They are defensive end Sherman White, safety Tommy Casanova, and linebacker Jim LeClair. Fourth-round draft selection Bernard Jackson, a cornerback, should also see plenty of action.

Regarding over-all depth on both offense and defense, veteran linebacker Al Beauchamp, who is battling to retain his starting spot, said, "We're solid. We can play different people and have the same effort."

The Bengals have back five runners they used pretty much interchangeably last season—Essex Johnson, Fred Willis, Jess Phillips, Paul Robinson and Doug Dressler.

At quarterback, second-year man Ken Anderson of Augustana College in Illinois is giving veteran Virgil Carter a strong challenge for the starting role.

"He is no longer the raw kid you saw last year," Brown said about Anderson, who recently helped lead the Bengals over the powerful Detroit Lions in an exhibition game. "The one who moves us the most effectively is going to carry the brunt of the load."

Anderson took over as a starter last year after Carter was injured. Then Anderson got hurt and the Bengals even used Dave Lewis, the NFL's leading punter the last two years although he played quarterback at Stanford a few years ago.

"We are at the mercy of the quarterback as just about every team is," Brown said. "Whether the quarterbacks stay healthy and whether any other key players are hurt will have a considerable bearing on how we do."

The Bengals' weakness seems to be in the pass receiving department. They had trouble last year with running backs dropping passes, and this year, none of the receivers has seemed to warm up.

"None of our receivers to date has caught the ball like we had hoped," Brown said.

In the offensive line, the Bengals have Pat Matson and Rufus Mayes who both enjoyed good years in 1971. The line complement also includes second-year men Vernon Holland and Steve Lawson.

Brown said he figures that the Pittsburgh Steelers will probably provide the stiffest battle for the division crown.

"I think Pittsburgh is coming in awfully strong," Brown said. "They've had bad years for years, but the drafts are beginning to show up."

All-Stars Drop Series Opener

(Democrat-Capital Service)

PINE BLUFF, Ark. — Sedalia's Junior Babe Ruth All-Stars came out on the losing end of a pitchers' duel here Saturday evening, falling to New Orleans, 2-0, in the World Series Opener.

Tony Lock went the full distance for the Sedalians and gave up only four hits. However, some costly walks coupled with Adrian Alvarez's three-hit performance forced the Sedalians into the loser's bracket.

Jim Sanders was the star of Sedalia's hitting with two singles. Lock chipped in one of his own, but no one got past first base for the Stars.

Lock pitched through four consecutive innings before running into any trouble. The fifth inning saw a New Orleans batter get as far as third, which turned out to be an omen of things to come.

Manuel Colletti, New Orleans' shortstop batting ninth, led off the sixth inning by grounding to second, but the pressure of six innings of scoreless play allowed Ray Pajares to get to first when Marv Spruell committed the first error of the game.

Then Dan Hrapman singled into left field, moving Pajares to third. Neal Comarda hit to second base to force Hrapman and sharp infield play kept Pajares from scoring.

With two out and the first score of the game at third, Lock walked Jim McCulla to load the bases. He then gave a free ride to Mario Ortiz, scoring Pajares. Lock finally settled down and struck out Dan Vorenkamp to end the top half of the inning.

Alvarez took care of the first two Sedalia batters and then allowed Sanders' second hit. But the Stars were unable to rally.

Lucian Giordano opened the final inning with a sizzling base hit off the glove of Rick McRoy at third. Lock dug his hole a little deeper then, throwing into the dirt at first in a pick-off attempt which allowed Giordano to move to third.

Lock got the pitcher on strikes but Colletti managed a squeeze bunt which scored Giordano. Hrapman ended New Orleans' batting for the contest by striking out. The Sedalians could get nothing going in their final effort of the game.

Sanders' first hit came in the first inning with one out while Lock's effort was recorded in the fourth frame with two away. Neither hit came with anyone on base.

The Stars continue World Series action tonight at 8 o'clock against either Pine Bluff, Ark., the host team, or Montgomery, Ala. That contest was played late last night.

Crosby Keys Cards' Win

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Ed Crosby's two-run double highlighted a three-run, eighth-inning rally that overcame a 3-2 San Francisco Giants lead and lifted the St. Louis Cardinals to a 7-4 National League baseball victory Saturday.

With one out in the eighth, Bernie Carbo and Joe Torre walloped back-to-back doubles for a 3-3 tie. Ted Simmons was walked intentionally and, with two away, Crosby belted his game-winning double to right.

Reliever John Cumberland, 1-5, a former Giant, picked up his first victory as a Cardinal and Frank Reberger, 3-2, suffered the loss.

The Giants had taken the lead on rookie Garry Maddox's third-inning single.

The Cards added two more runs in the ninth when Lou Brock and Ted Sizemore scored on Willie McCovey's throwing error after Simmons had grounded out.

The Cardinals scored twice in the second on Torre's leadoff single and Simmons' 12th homer of the season.

IOC President Resigns Post

MUNICH (AP) — Avery Brundage, stepping down as president of the International Olympic Committee after 20 years, Saturday called the Winter Olympic Games scandal-ridden, parochial and sick and urged their elimination after the Denver Games in 1976.

"May they receive a decent burial at Denver," the 84-year-old Chicago millionaire said in a speech prepared for delivery before the IOC.

Despite overtures from fellow committee members to continue in office, the militiant Brundage insisted that he would not stand for reelection at the IOC general meetings which began Monday.

In his valedictory, Brundage lashed out at growing commercialism in the Games, the danger of professionalism and the need to take a new look at team sports, but his heaviest artillery was aimed at the Winter Games.

"Hardly one-fourth of the 130 National Olympic committees are actively interested in winter sports and events have been monopolized by competitors from a handful of countries," Brundage said.

Practice Remains No-Contact at MU

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — The Missouri Tigers revelled in no-contact practice Saturday after an hour-long rain helped drop the week's stifling temperatures into the low 80s.

Full-gear practice begins Sunday as preparations continue for the Sept. 9 opener at Oregon. Coach Al Onofrio said the squad's progress is meeting his timetable, "but we know we still have a long, long way to go before we'll be ready for Oregon."

Devlin Pushes Into 3-Stroke USI Lead

SUTTON, Mass. (AP) — Australian Bruce Devlin birdied the final hole—after national television coverage had ended—and opened up a two-stroke lead Saturday after the third round of the $200,000 USI Golf Classic.

Devlin, who scored his seventh tour triumph in the Houston Open earlier this year, had a 54-hole total of 206, 10 under par on the 7,212-yard Pleasant Valley Country Club course.

Only rookie John Mahaffey and Lee Elder, one of the pro tour's few blacks, were able to keep the skinny Australian in sight. They were tied for second at 208.

Mahaffey carded a 70 Saturday while Elder shot a 71 with a bogey on the 17th hole.

Two other would-be challengers encountered doubley-bogey disaster down the stretch. Tommy Aaron made a seven on the par five final hole for a 74 and 210. And Hale Irwin, who shared the 36-hole lead with Aaron, blew to a 41 on the back nine for a 76-212.

Deglin carded a 69 for the day.

Lee Trevino, the British Open champion and pre-tournament favorite here, shot himself out of it. Trevino took a scrambling 75 in the bright, warm sunshine and was a distant 12 strokes back at 218.

Jack Nicklaus, winner of five titles and some $240,000 already this season; Arnold Palmer and Gary Player are not competing in this rich event being sponsored by United States Industries for the first time.

The 34-year-old Devlin, who doesn't plan to compete in the United States again for three months, was tied with Elder at nine under par going to the last two holes but got a two-stroke bulge.

Elder, in fact, made a miracle bogey on the 17th.

"I was very, very lucky," said the 38-year-old Elder, who could become the first of his race ever to play in the Masters should he win here. "I could have made a six or seven real easy."

That bogey gave Devlin a one-stroke lead and the onetime plumber in Australia stretched it to two when he lofted a third shot to within eight feet of the flag on the final hole and made the birdie putt.

Royals Edge By Brewers

KANSAS CITY (AP) — John Mayberry broke a tie with a home run leading off the seventh inning, sending the Kansas City Royals to a 2-1 American League baseball victory over the Milwaukee Brewers Saturday night.

Mayberry delivered his 10th homer of the year off Skip Lockwood, 6-10, to break a 1-1 tie that existed from the third inning.

Dick Drago improved his record to 9-14 with eight-inning relief help from Ted Abernathy.

Until Mayberry connected off Lockwood, the Milwaukee starter had limited the Royals to three hits, including a fluke pop-fly double by Richie Scheinblum that tied the score.

Milwaukee took a 1-0 lead in the first on Rick Auerbach's double, a sacrifice fly and Brock Davis' RBI single. The Royals then made it 1-1 in the third on a walk to Paul Schaal and Scheinblum's fly ball that left fielder Johnny Briggs lost in the lights.

'Butch Cassidy' Noses Out Win

Fast time and tight competition highlighted the opening of the Missouri State Fair's Quarter Horse races Friday.

"Butch Cassidy," owned by Robert P. Thompson, Iowa City, Ia., with jockey Terry Saunder aboard, led the field of three-year-olds to the wire by a nose and earned the $12,537 first prize.

Running a close second was "Fly Chick's Maid," owned by Ann and B.L. Barrington, Lubbock, Tex., and ridden by jockey Ray Simmons. "Fly Chick's Maid" collected $5,998. Third place went to "Pac Hoosier Gal," owned by Guy Ray Rutland, Independence, Kan., with jockey Mac White up.

"He's Bound To," owned by Kenneth Harlow of Skitook, Okla., out-distanced a field of ten qualifiers by two and three-quarters lengths to win the consolation derby.

As a two-year-old in 1971, "He's Bound To" won the Missouri Futurity in the Missouri State Fair's Registered Quarter Horse racing program. For that win, "He's Bound To" banked more than $22,000.

Second and third place finishers in that race were "Kitty Bound," owned by Rex Hazzard of Belle Plains, Kan., and Paul Couch's "Cold Tag," which was entered out of Talequah, Okla.

Quarter horse racing will resume Tuesday at 8 a.m. in front of the grandstand and is free to the public.

Harness racing also begins Tuesday. Trotters, pacers and pony harness events will begin at 1:30 p.m. and are also free.

Fairbanks Confident

NORMAN, Okla. (AP) — Coach Chuck Fairbanks welcomed some 115 varsity football hopefuls back to Norman Saturday for the annual OU Photo Day, and afterward proclaimed he was "confident about this team."

"I was confident about last year's team," he added. "Last year our offensive team appeared more certain because of quarterback. Defensively, we had quite a few questions a year ago. I feel a little better about our defensive team than I did last year."

Fairbanks talked with the media after he and the Sooner players posed for photos for some three hours.

"The turning point today," he said, "was when we got through the team picture all right."

Retiring Horses To Be Recognized

Two of the many horses at the State Fair, Aug. 18-27, will not be competing, but will receive recognition for their past activities.

Strolling Red was foaled June 5, 1950, at the Hoyte McCrary Stables, Shreveport, La. After passing through several owners, the gelding was bought in 1960 by the present owners, I. D. McKee of Meta. The horse was one of the top competitors in the Walking Horse Division in the Central United States.

Rajab, a 16-year-old Arabian stallion, will be awarded the Legion Merit Award. The International Arabian Horse Association started the Legion Award in 1960 to honor horses of outstanding performance in both halter and performing classes. To date only 395 horses have qualified for the award.

The Legion Award ceremony takes place Tuesday night.

Gold, Not Records, Lures Top Athletes

MUNICH, Germany (AP) — With the start of the Summer Olympics a week away, U.S. track athletes like Willie Davenport say they will be running for gold and not world records at the Games.

"No one at the Olympics expects to break a world record," asserted Davenport, America's defending Olympic champion in the 110 meter hurdles.

"The time is not important, the gold medal is," says the 29-year-old world record holder at the distance. "Being first is what counts and it doesn't matter if the time is 12.8 or 14.5 seconds."

Stan Wright, sprint coach of the U.S. men's Olympic team, echoes Davenport's sentiments on clockings for the Munich Summer Games that start Saturday.

"The winning time is inconsequential, and I don't mean that facetiously," said Wright, who is tutoring his fourth U.S. Olympic squad.

Electronic timers activated by the trigger of the starter's gun will replace hand-held, finish line stop watches at the Munich Summer Games. This has led to speculation that timings for short distance races on the artificial track of the Olympic Stadium may be two-tenths of a second slower than normal.

America's track and field team, with a complement of 80 athletes and coaches, will test the timers in the Olympic Stadium in a pre-Olympic meet on Wednesday.

Track and field gets under way here Aug. 31.

Russian sprinter Valeri Borzov is being touted as the man who may break the string of American successes in the dashes. He set European records last year in the 100 meters of :10.0 and :20.2 in the 200 meters.

"We respect Borzov, but we don't fear him," Wright said. "You don't run 10.1 without being good, but our boys aren't losing any sleep over him."

U.S. coaches report the Americans will be practicing about one and a half hours daily during time remaining before preliminary competitions.

Politics, Gags

Discordant Notes in Munich

MUNICH (AP) — Scores of protesting black athletes, including 18 Americans, walked out on a preliminary track and field meet Saturday and threw an ominous cloud over the summer Olympic Games, scheduled to open here next Saturday.

Political bickering, the imposition of gags on athletes and charges of violation of human rights, sent discordant notes ringing through this gay, pleasant Bavarian capital as final preparations were made for the international sports spectacle dedicated to good will among nations.

The boycott occurred at a pre-Olympic event, scheduled to take place in the small Alpine community of Kempten, as part of the developing protest against the presence of white-ruled Rhodesia in the Games.

The athletes boarded buses at the Olympic village for the 85-mile ride to the community south of Munich, where a crowd of 2,000 spectators waited in damp, raw weather.

Upon arrival, the African and sympathetic nations dramatically announced they would not take the field with the Rhodesians, although the latter consists of mixed black and white athletes.

Eighteen black members of the U.S. team joined the protesters on the sideline. Earlier, a group of them had issued a joint statement, saying, "We will stick by our black brothers."

There still was grave concern over the threat of 12 African nations, including such talent-loaded teams as Ethiopia and Kenya, to boycott the Games if Rhodesia is permitted to compete. Guyana became the 12th nation threatening a boycott with an announcement Saturday.

"This is political blackmail," growled Avery Brundage, militant, 84-year-old president of the International Olympic Committee. "We will not allow Olympic principles to be intimidated."

Meanwhile, Abraham Ordia of Nigeria, president of the Supreme Council for Sport in Africa, planned meetings with Willi Daume, president of the Munich Organizing Committee, seeking a solution before lighting of the Olympic torch next Saturday.

These were other developments on the troubled Olympic scene:

—Brundage, scheduled to step down after 20 years as president, urged the IOC in a formal speech to strengthen Olympic rules and ideals and eliminate the Winter Olympics after the Denver games in 1976. Calling them limited in scope, scandal-ridden and sick, he said, "May they receive a decent burial at Denver."

—Gustav Heinemann, president of West Germany, deplored the use of the Olympics to serve political ends and told the IOC: "The older generation remembers very well the games of 1936 in Berlin which were abused by the then rulers of Germany for their own purposes."

—Clifford Buck, president of the U.S. Olympic Committee, added to the controversy over an American gag rule by asking that newsmen be barred from the Olympic Village. Buck earlier had denied a charge by Olga Connolly, veteran U.S. discus thrower, that U.S. athletes were "treated like children" and "denied freedom of speech and movement."

—Organizers of the Denver Winter Olympics were assured after a meeting with the IOC executive committee that they would not be stripped of the 1976 Winter Games.

Women's Amateur To Budke

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Mary Anne Budke, 18-year-old upcoming sophomore at Oregon State University, gained the most important championship of her youthful career Saturday when she defeated Cynthia "Cindy" Hill of South Haven, Mich., 5 and 4 in the 36-hole final of the 72nd Annual United States Women's Amateur Golf Tournament here.

Miss Budke, a resident of Dundee, Ore., was runnerup in the recent College Girls' tournament and ranked ninth nationally in 1971. She achieved her latest triumph despite a hole-in-one and a near miss by 24-year-old Miss Hill, who lists her club affiliation as St. Petersburg, Fla.

Cindy approached the tee at the 145-yard number seven hole one down and guided by Miss Budke's shot 25-feet from the pin, lofted a five-iron that bounced on the green three times then darted rapidly down the hole for her third ace in career tournament competition.

The hole-in-one squared the match, but Mary won the next hole with a par four and they halved the number nine leaving Miss Budke one up at the turn. Each shot 37, two over par.

Then, while Mary won Nos. 10 and 14 to go 3 up, Cindy smacked her drive on the 180-yard number 16 holes to within 10 feet of the pin for a reasonably easy deuce. She won that hole and No. 17 to be 1 down after the morning session.

Under the hot, sultry, afternoon sun, Miss Budke seemed to get stronger as she carded a string of three 3's while Miss Hill went bogey, par, par and Mary took a 2-up lead which she maintained as they halved the next four holes.

Miss Budke won No. 26 when Cindy's ball hit a tree and she conceded the hole but Miss Hill rallied for a birdie at No. 27 as they made the turn for the second time with Miss Budke 2 up.

Mary's medal was a conceded 34 while Miss Hill had a 36.

Miss Budke increased her lead with a par 4 at No. 28. Each got par at 29, but Cindy got into trap trouble at number 30 and conceded a par to Mary who went 4 up.

After they halved No. 31 each with a par five, Miss Budke closed out the match when Cindy faltered on a chip that dribbled only about 50 yards toward the hole. She needed four strokes to reach the green. Miss Budke, on in three, was 20 feet away and she lagged a put within ten inches of the hole. When Miss Hill missed her putt badly, she conceded.

Ron Perkins, Des Moines Moines, Iowa, passed Gordon Woolley of Waco, Tex., on the 11th lap and held off a late charge from Kansas City's Gene Gennetten to win the International Motor Contest Association's 30-lap sprint feature Saturday afternoon on the Missouri State Fairgrounds half-mile dirt track.

For Perkins it was his first sprint victory of the season, as well as his initial feature win here.

The win also ended a two-year drought for the youthful-looking Iowa pilot, who finished 10th in the 1971 IMCA sprint division standings.

Perkins and Gennetten staged a fierce fight for the lead position until the 18th lap, when Gennetten was dropped all the way to the rear of the field, due to a spin out in between the first and second turns on the fairgrounds' dry-slick surface.

But Gennetten, winner of last year's Missouri Junior Supermodified championship on the same half-mile track, would not give up as he made up his lost ground quickly. The 30-lap distance just wasn't enough to catch the hard-charging Perkins.

Rounding out the top five positions were Larry Kirkpatrick, Wood River, Ill; Wib Spalding, Granite City, Ill.; and Bill Utz, Sedalia. Utz made up a lot of ground in the final 11 laps as he too was forced to the rear of the pack when he put his number 98 Chevy-powered racer into a deliberate spin and avoided Gennetten on his 19th-lap mishap.

Woolley, one of the oldest drivers on the IMCA's roster, grabbed the lead on the first lap from his outside pole position. He remained there until the 11th lap, when Perkins took over.

Woolley and Perkins were the race's only leaders.

Coming in sixth in the Fair's opening automobile race was Ralph Parkinson, Jr., Kansas City. Next in line were Dick Sutcliffe, Greenwood, Mo.; Thad Dosher, Topeka, Kan.; Tom Coleman, Columbia, and Jay Woodside, Kansas City.

Sutcliffe was placed into the cockpit of Eddie Leavitt's entry, after Leavitt timed the car in a clocking of :24.83, well up the field of 44 qualifiers.

Roger Larson, Solomon, Kan., was the victor in the 12-lap consolation feature. Larson, who set the day's fastest time, took the checker in front of Dave Ross, Jetmore, Kan.; Jim Jenkins, Slater; John Johnson, Independence; and Woolley.

Heat victories were chalked up by Dosher, Dean Shirley of Lincoln, Ill., and Sutcliffe.

A number of accidents marred the afternoon show. The yellow flag flew five times in the feature and once in the consolation event. That accident, most destructive of them all, involved three cars and a utility pole, and the safety lights were lost for the rest of the day.

The chain reaction accident occurred on the opening lap and involved seven cars. Because of the thick dust that accompanied the mishap, it could not be determined how it started.

But the outcome saw Tom Nordstrom, White Bear Lake, Minn., tear down a utility pole on the outside of the first turn. The pole held up the safety lights.

Only one record was set on the slow track. And had it not been for the fact that a 12-lap race had never been run under IMCA sanction here on the half, that probably would not have occurred. The record came in the consy, where Larson toured the distance in a time of 5:06.69.

The remaining event on Saturday afternoon's card, the match race, went to Jerry "Flea" Atkin of Holts Summit, Mo.

Cleanup in Turn One

Wreckers and track officials, along with car owners and pitmen, try to clean up the wreckage left in the first turn during the consolation feature Saturday afternoon at the International Motor Contest Association sprint show. A chain-reaction accident that saw Tom Nordstrom, White Bear Lake, Minn., fly over the guard rail and tear out the utility pole that holds up the safety lights occurred on the first lap of the race. It took officials nearly 20 minutes to untangle the mess.

Detroit Pounds California, 10-1

DETROIT (AP) — Detroit jumped on California pitcher Rudy May for six runs in the first inning, two on a homer by Al Kaline and two on Ed Brinkman's single, en route to a 10-1 pounding of the Angels Saturday in an American League baseball game.

Kaline also hit a sacrifice fly in the fifth inning as the Tigers collected 16 hits for their most productive hitting game this season.

Tom Timmerman, 8-10, gave up four hits in his six innings, including the Angels' run in the first on a double by Sandy Alomar and a single by Lou Cadena. Alomar left the game with an upset stomach but not before moving into seventh on the all-time AL list with 586 consecutive games played.

Singles by Aurelio Rodriguez and Timmerman produced the other runs in the Tiger first. Mickey Stanley hit a sacrifice fly for Detroit in the fourth, while Tony Taylor and pinch hitter Gates Brown each singled in a run in the fifth and sixth, respectively.

Chiefs Eye 4th Pre-season Win

(Democrat-Capital Service)

KANSAS CITY — The going begins to get a little tougher for the unbeaten Kansas City Chiefs this week as they head into game four of the 1972 pre-season.

With impressive victories over the New York Giants, Chicago Bears and St. Louis Cardinals tucked away, the Chiefs go after their fourth win in a row Monday night when they take on the Baltimore Colts in the second game at Arrowhead Stadium.

The Chiefs opened their brand new 78,000 seat stadium Aug. 12 with a 24-14 dedication victory over the Cardinals in an intra-state battle that brought the Governor's Cup back to Kansas City.

Marching behind a stubborn and alert defense and brilliant display by the specialty teams, the Chiefs exploded for all 24 points in the second quarter to whip the NFC Cardinals before 78,190 spectators, the largest crowd to ever watch a sporting event in Missouri.

Now it's Baltimore, runner-up to AFC Champion Miami in the Eastern Division last season and the fourth qualifier in the playoffs.

"Baltimore," said Head Coach Hank Stram, "is a talented team — very skilled with a solid defense and sound offensive experience with their quarterbacks. Their kicking game is excellent."

The Colts are a surprising 0-2 in pre-season play, having lost to Washington and Oakland.

Four Chiefs players were on the injury list at the start of the week, however, only runningback Ed Podolak is listed as a doubtful starter for Monday night's contest. Podolak, the Chiefs leading rusher in pre-season play with 126 net yards on 29 carries, twisted an ankle in the Cardinal game. He has not been declared out of the Baltimore contest as yet, but the sprain on the top of his ankle is expected to hamper his running. Three others, Otis Taylor, Willie Frazier and Bruce Jankowski, are recovering from slight ankle or foot injuries, although none is expected to miss Monday night's game.

Stram gave the Chiefs Sunday and Monday off last week following the win over the Cardinals. The Chiefs went back to work with two practice sessions on Tuesday and Wednesday with single sessions on Friday, Saturday and today.

In looking back at Saturday night's win over the Cardinals, Stram said: "Overall, our defense did an outstanding job all night long (only 186 total net yards allowed to Cards). Our specialty teams also did well for us. We didn't move the ball on offense as well as we have in the past. We had some big plays, but didn't have the total consistency we're seeking. We did show good balance. Even though the offense wasn't able to move the ball with consistency, we were able to get points with our defense and our specialty teams. I did think we played with great enthusiasm and maintained sharpness throughout the game."

Stram said he is satisfied with the progress the Chiefs have made thus far in the pre-season. "We are developing each week at a good pace," pointed out Stram. "The team is showing better poise and confidence. We learned some good lessons, especially in the first two games when we had to come from behind to win."

Stram indicated the Chiefs would follow the same pattern for the rest of the pre-season schedule. "We just can't look beyond the Colts at this point," he said. "We have to go into this part of our pre-season schedule with the same philosophy we have for all pre-season games: 1) to win, 2) to play as many people as possible and still win, 3) to improve artistically and, 4) to come out without any injuries."

Three Teams Knocked Out Of NBC Tourney

BULLETIN

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — Greensboro, N.C., Mobile, Ala., and sixth-seeded Grand Rapids of Michigan were knocked out of the National Baseball Congress Tournament Saturday in losers' bracket games.

Durant, Okla., and Grand Rapids could produce only goose eggs until the top of the ninth when Larry Wade singled for Durant, moved to second on a sacrifice and scored the only run on a single by Ben Lord.

The 1-0 victory went to Southeast Oklahoma State righthander Fred Rhoten, who walked out two and struck out three while allowing only two hits. Dana Snoap, a righthander from Central Iowa, absorbed the frstrating loss after walking one and striking out five in a five-hit effort.

Madison, Wis., knocked out 11 hits and was perfect afield in defeating Greensboro 9-1 in a seven-inning affair, and Mobile's roof caved in during the eighth inning as the Alabamans bowed to Chalmette, La., 7-1.

Leftfielder Don Held and rightfielder Greg O'Brian accounted for five of Madison's runs with homers — Held hitting a three-run shot, O'Brian, one for two runs.

Randy Bratton was pitching a fine game for Mobile when, with bases loaded in the eighth inning, he muffed a bunt by third baseman Bobby McNamara and allowed a run to score. It broke a tie and five more Chalmette runs crossed the plate in the frame, ending the game after eight because of the six-run lead rule.

At Munich Olympics

Trying To Forget Hitler

MUNICH, Germany, (AP) — Laughing, singing hippies gulp beer from 10-inch pewter mugs at the Hofbraeuhaus, where Adolf Hitler sowed the first seeds of Naziism in the 1920s, and Olympic five-ring flags instead of swastikas flutter in the breeze along Ludwigstrasse which once quivered to the beat of goose-stepping legions.

Efforts have been made to erase every reminder of the Fuehrer and the carnage of World War II for the 20th Olympic Games, opening in this gay and friendly Bavarian capital next Saturday afternoon.

It's verboten—against the law—to display a swastika or a likeness of the mustachioed Adolf, even on the book shelves.

Harness Racing at Fair Gets Started Tuesday

The four-day harness racing program at the Missouri State Fair gets under way at 1:30 p.m. Tuesday on the mile track.

A record number of colts are entered for Tuesday's racing. The three-year-old trotters and the three-year-old pacers will each be racing for a purse of $2,400. Also on the racing program is the two-year-old pace for a purse of $2,000. The top colts of the Midwest will be on hand; most have been racing in adjoining states.

Wednesday's racing card features the Governor's Cup for Missouri-owned pacers racing for a purse of $2,400 and the Governor's Trophy, which will be presented by Gov. Warren Hearnes.

Also on the card is the trot for Missouri-owned horses and the two-year-old trot. Outstanding horses will be competing in the Missouri-owned trot and pace.

On Thursday horses who have yet to earn substantial amounts will be featured in overnight events.

Pacers with winnings under $4,000 will be competing for a purse of $2,000. Trotters and pacers with winnings under $1,000 will be racing in their respective divisions for purses of $1,700.

Friday's racing features the free-for-all trot and pace, each going for a purse of $2,400. These races usually produce the fastest times of the week as the free-for-all classes are open to all horses regardless of the amount of their previous winnings. The veteran campaigners usually show fine racing form and sizzling speed.

Also on Friday's racing program is a trot for $2,000 limited to trotters who have won less than $4,000.

Q — Do hospital employes come under city policy as do city employes like policemen, firemen, etc., concerning wages, retirement benefits, rights to use swimming pools and other matters? I raise the question because I have heard that the hospital is city owned, and non-profit in nature. — V.W.

A —Mayor Jerry Jones said that although Bothwell Hospital is city owned, any benefits provided for its employes would have to come from the hospital. The city employes' benefits system does not include hospital employes. Ray Jiedel, administrative assistant at Bothwell, suggested that for more detailed information on board policy concerning benefits, a call may be placed to the administrative office of the hospital.

Q —What are the duties of our city sanitation officer? Why can't he clean up a health hazard in the city? There is a family in our neighborhood which does much out-of-door eating-cooking. They throw the refuse from their meals on the ground in the yard. I believe this draws an enormous amount of flies to the area and constitutes a health hazard. I have requested that the sanitation officer do something about it, but he refuses to do so. Why? —J.W.

A — Arthur Bethke, sanitation officer, said the party you are referring to was arrested Aug. 6 and charged with dumping garbage on private property. Bethke said the individuals were in court, where the case was taken under advisement.

Q —Who makes the decision on the valuation of a building that has been partly burned? I nearly fell out of my chair when I read in the Aug. 6 edition of The Democrat where a shed had caught fire and the loss of the partially burned building was estimated at $1,000. I watched those firemen go into the shed trying to save it. I know this is their duty, but is it necessary to jeopardize our firemen's lives when the shed before it burned wasn't worth $10, much less $1,000? —P.N.B.

A — Fire Chief Emmett Vaught told Hot Line that after fighting a fire, the officer in charge makes a preliminary estimate of the damage. In most cases the final estimate is made by an insurance adjuster. However, should the property owner not have insurance, the fire department assumes its own estimate is correct.

Q — My family wants to add a second bath to our home. Therefore, we will require some plumbing work. Our property already has a line running through it which is hooked to the main line. I wonder to what extent my husband may work on the plumbing. Is it legal for an individual to do the work to hook onto the main line or must he have a plumber do part of the work? —L.Y.

A —According to Woodrow Garrison, city building, electrical, and plumbing inspector, your freedom to do plumbing work is applicable only in situations where the homeowner is repairing or maintaining existing equipment. Even in this situation the city code requires that the finished work be inspected.

Should new installations be required, the homeowner must contact a licensed plumber to do the job. The plumber will then make application with the city and, following completion of the work, the plumber infroms the city that his job is ready for inspection.

Garrison said work not directly associated with plumbing, such as digging a ditch for a line could be done by the property owner.

Main Points Of the GOP Platform

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Following are main points of the defense and foreign affairs sections of the proposed platform that will be submitted to the Republican National Convention Tuesday:

—No amnesty for draft dodgers and deserters.

—An all-volunteer armed force and a goal of ending the draft by mid-1973.

—Followups to Nixon's efforts at improving relations with the Soviet Union and the People's Republic of China, but also close cooperation with Taiwan, Japan and NATO allies.

THE SEDALIA DEMOCRAT

Invite Democratic Vote

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The Republican platform being readied for next week's GOP National Convention invites Democrats to vote for Richard Nixon and forsake what it says is "the radical clique" controlling the Democratic party.

The draft of a first platform section, endorsing a strong defense and standing pat on Nixon's peace-with-honor terms for a Vietnam settlement, was issued late Friday. Two sections on domestic issues are soon to follow.

The draft platform predicts that the Nixon bandwagon will be joined by "millions of discerning Democrats and concerned independents who will not, and cannot, take part in the convulsive leftward lurch of the national Democratic party."

Asserting that the choice for voters is between "strength and weakness for our country in the years to come," the platform extends its open-arms welcome to Democrats in a five-page preamble:

"We invite our troubled friends of other political affiliations to join with us in a new coalition for progress.

"Together let us reject the New Left prescription for folly and build surely on the solid achievements of President Nixon's first term."

The draft will reach the convention Tuesday. Its adoption is considered certain, though floor skirmishes on women's rights and school busing are possible.

The platform language suggested that Republican emphasis on alleged leftward leanings of the Democratic presidential nominee, Sen. George McGovern, will be a running theme of the GOP's campaign.

The GOP platform draft pledged a continuing quest for a Vietnam settlement permitting the people of Southeast Asia "to live in peace under political arrangements of their own choosing."

It endorsed Nixon's "refusal to accept terms which would dishonor his country" by yielding to Hanoi's demand that the United States scuttle the Saigon government in favor of a Communist-dominated regime.

The plank endorsed Nixon's offer to withdraw remaining American forces four months after an internationally supervised cease-fire has gone into effect and prisoners of war have been returned.

In addition to calling for the return of prisoners and an accounting of the missing in action, the plank declared:

"Here and now we reject all proposals to grant amnesty to those who have broken the law by evading military service."

The platform took a swipe at McGovern's proposal to cut defense spending by $32 billion in 1975, reduce U.S. uniformed strength to the lowest level since before the Korean War, and halt some weapons system development.

Security Improved At Jail

The Pettis County sheriff's department installed a television monitoring device in the jail "for security purposes," Friday, according to Sheriff Emmett Fairfax.

Fairfax told The Democrat-Capital the unit will allow "the deputy on duty to see down the hallway," of the cell block while in the radio room.

The unit's camera is positioned at the north end of the hallway pointing south to allow a full view of the cell block. In the radio room, a small receiver, resembling a mini-television, picks up the image projected by the camera.

By allowing dispatchers to monitor activities in the corridor, Fairfax said the unit provides better protection for officers while taking prisoners in and out of cells.

A "listening device" was also placed in the hallway Friday, Fairfax said. The television and listening device "makes for better safety for officers and prisoners," he said, adding that the monitoring unit will "update security in the jail."

Pettis County appropriated 40 per cent of the funds for the unit with federal money from the Law Enforcement Assistance Council making-up the other 60 per cent.

Sergeant Abhors Name

HUNTSVILLE, Ala. (AP) — A staff sergeant at the Army's Redstone Arsenal here has a name which invokes bitter memories.

It's George Wallace Bremer, and "has been for 29 years," the Columbia, Mo., native said Thursday.

Bremer, an instructor in the Shillelagh Missile System, said he was getting comments on his name long before Arthur Bremer was convicted of shooting Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace during a political rally in Maryland last May.

The comments started, he said, when he moved to Alabama several years ago. But after Wallace was shot and Bremer arrested, the comments increased.

"On the day Wallace was shot," he said, "a local TV newsman gave out some wrong information. He said the guy's name that shot him was George Bremer. I got a lot of comments on that."

The most unusual comment, he said, came from an Alabama state trooper in June when the sergeant was getting his Missouri driver's license changed to an Alabama permit.

"We had decided to make this our home, so I went to get a state license. The state trooper who gave the test told me, 'I don't know whether to arrest you or shake your hand."

Youth Thought Dead Is Alive and Well

HOUSTON (AP) — A 15-year-old youth whom officers thought was dead after a skeleton was found last year has turned up alive and well in the U.S. Army, sheriff's deputies said Friday.

Phillip Buddy Manning had been missing from his home here since July of 1971. Deputies thought he was dead after a partial skeleton was found in Taylor Lake on Sept. 1, 1971.

But Manning apparently went to Dallas where he joined the service this spring using a false birth certificate.

Authorities said Manning was discovered when he ran into his grandmother last Sunday in a bus station in Ragley, La., where she lives.

GERMAN AIR SUFFERS

BONN, Germany (AP) — Each year 3.39 million tons of sulphur dioxide and 4.5 million tons of carbon monoxide are released into the West German air, a Federal Science Ministry commission reported.

In addition, some 8.1 million tons of inorganic salts are pumped into the national waterways annually.

The sulphur dioxide comes from power stations and domestic heating, while 80 per cent of the carbon monoxide is provided by traffic.

Water pollution is blamed primarily on chemical and mining concerns.

Change Won't Come, King Has Reported

RABAT, Morocco (AP) — King Hassan II has made clear that the second abortive military coup against him in 13 months—this time apparently by his most trusted army general—will change little in his autocratic style of running Morocco.

Hassan's interior minister, Mohammed Benhima, said Friday, "I don't see why we'll change our methods because eight F5s were so crazy as to bomb us. Our actions will continue. We will follow our policies."

Benhima made the assertion after he called Gen. Mohamed Oufkir the traitor behind the jet fighter attack on the King's plane and palace Wednesday.

Oufkir, who as defense minister had held powers of martial law following the coup attempt last July against Hassan, took his own life after the latest coup failed, Benhima said.

He described it as a "traitor's suicide" and said Oufkir probably had a role in the 1971 assassination attempt.

At the same time as Benhima was suggesting the king would continue to govern with complete authority, he said a reform program begun last year would be pursued.

"We are going to distribute recovered land from now until October and thousands of farmers are going to get land," Behnima asserted. "By an additional tax, we are trying to favor the rich classes less for the benefit of the poor classes."

Whether reform and Hassan's autocratic regime could work together was an open question.

Benhima said he did not want to discuss Oufkir's motives, commenting only that the general had no foreign assistance. Although the plotters' motives were unclear the main grievances against the king have been a dissatisfaction with monarchy, charges of corruption, inefficiency and uneven distribution of wealth.

Return Rate Across Nation Is Defied at Seattle's Conbela Facility

By CHARLES BAROUH
Associated Press Writer

SEATTLE (AP) — They call themselves paraprofessionals with no medical standing except a measure of success.

They are the people of Conbela, a halfway house and rehabilitation program for ex-mental patients. The program has a youthful disdain for psychiatry and the "establishment." Just three years old, Conbela claims a success rate four times better than the national average for keeping people from returning to mental hospitals.

It has created a residence program that provides the people it helps with what amounts to a new family.

"For the first time in their lives they have friends, someone to drink with, someone to live with, someone to cry with, someone to laugh with," Director Dennis Healy said.

It also set out to help its clients develop marketable job skills and now has several businesses which soon may show a profit.

Conbela operates a paper recycling business in the basement of its three-story warehouse headquarters in Seattle's hippie Fremont District, along with a silkscreening operation and a small store to sell its wares.

Conbela began as a housing program for people who had left mental hospitals but lacked even the minimal skills for coping with life. Clients are referred to the program from mental hospitals, primarily Northern State Hospital in Sedro Wooley, Wash., and the Department of Vocation and Rehabilitation. "Some didn't know how to use a pay telephone, let alone figure out the transit system," Hely said.

"We got them (the clients) in a halfway house program to learn those normal coping skills—how to manage a home, how to budget, cooking, cleaning—living on their own and not having somebody else do it."

The rate nationwide of people returning to mental hospitals is 66 per cent, Healy said. The rate for return for people who have left mental hospitals and entered the Conbela program is 17 per cent. Healy said this statistic has sparked considerable interest from other community maintenance and halfway house programs around the country.

Why is Conbela apparently so much more successful than other programs?

"I really don't know," Healy admitted. "This is a one-of-a-kind program in the country."

But he has an idea.

"They volunteer for this program," he added. "They don't have to come to this program and they can leave any time they want, come and go any time they want. But they are here, and it is of their own choosing. For many of them it's the first time in their lives they have really chosen to do something."

Unlike most halfway house programs, Conbela is "not all therapy-oriented," Healy said.

By bent, Conbela isn't interested in formal therapy. By professional qualifications, it can't be.

"There's no one here that we would ever term a professional," Healy said. "I do have a degree in psychology, but I'm not a professional in this field. I'm a paraprofessional."

The other paraprofessionals in the eight-member staff also share another quality—youth. Healy just turned 24. Four are 25, the others 24, 26, 28 and 30.

The young staff has to answer to a board of directors, none of whom is under 35, but this doesn't seem to inhibit the freewheeling style. For instance, Healy said, there was $97 in the checking account when Conbela began buying its four residence houses, each at between $35,000 and $40,000.

Conbela grew out of what Healy called "a miscegnation of people who came together."

Barbara Cram, a New Careers counselor for Northern State, found many of the ex-mental patients living in seamy downtown hotels, Healy said. She found there were no existing facilities for them and went about starting one with organizational help from Northern State and money from the Office of Economic Opportunity and Public Assistance funds.

Healy was doing graduate work at the University of Washington when he found out about Conbela from a guest speaker in one of his classes. His family had a silkscreening business they wanted to get rid of and donated it to Conbela, he said, thus expanding Conbela's original operation.

The staff, too, he said, often made donations to the program, and went without pay. Salary still remains an elusive thing to "paid" staffers.

The chairman of Conbela's board, Ed Goldman, was an official of a paper company in Everett, Wash. It was his idea that led Conbela into the paper recycling business as part of vocational rehabilitation.

Conbela hopes to balance a $353,400 budget next year. The silkscreen operation shows a profit of about $1,000 a month. The paper recycling operation is the big loser right now, but new contracts being sought hold out the prospect of a $3,500-a-month profit, Healy said.

"The ultimate goal is to gain economic independence from grants and donations," Healy said. "This is a nonprofit organization, so the profits would be put back into the white elephants such as the housing program, activities program and the drop-in center we hope to start."

The organization was certified by the state as a sheltered workshop on June 1, thus making it easier to obtain grants.

Outgoing financing is a scramble, with most of the assured money paid by the state for Conbela's counseling and job training.

There are about 70 people in the program.

"The people downstairs are on job training and work evaluation," Healy explained. "They stay there three months. If it looks like they have the potential to go out and find a job, we keep them on training and bill the state 'x' amount of dollars to train them in a skill-truck driving, operating a fork lift.

"About 60 per cent of those we have put into job training has gotten jobs. The ones we have not been able to place in jobs have stayed here on an extended basis."

Reality Therapy

Chamber Pushing Campaign Buttons

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The United States Chamber of Commerce is passing out buttons to Republican convention delegates reading "Some of My Best Friends Are Businessmen" and "Profit Is Not a Four-Letter Word."

The chamber's executive vice president, Arch Booth, said the aim is to remind GOP policymakers that a healthy business community is basic to prosperity.

Noting that the Democrats had few businessman delegates to their national convention last month and few kind words for business in their platform, Booth said: "Business is the new minority."

Man Is Grateful For Ambulances

WEST VANCOUVER, B. C. (AP) — John D. Bull was impressed with the ambulance service he received a couple of months ago when he collapsed at his home.

"The ambulance service was so excellent that I wanted to do something in return," the retired developer said Tuesday.

Bull made inquiries and learned the city needed a new ambulance. So he bought one, fully equipped — and presented it to the city.

It cost $9,000.

Salinger's mission hurts McGovern

As if he needed it, Sen. George McGovern has again demonstrated his apparent inability to run his own campaign and control the actions of his subordinates.

The latest gaffe involves Pierre Salinger's recent trip to Paris, where he conferred with members of the North Vietnamese delegation to the peace talks regarding American prisoners of war.

Salinger also was reported to have told the North Vietnamese that they should conclude a peace with President Nixon, and not wait for the November elections.

McGovern, in response to newsmen's questions Wednesday, at first flatly denied having sent Salinger on the mission. Later he admitted that Salinger was, indeed, his agent, and that he had instructed him as to what to say to the North Vietnamese.

There are two things to be said about the episode. In the first place, McGovern has no business conducting his own brand of back-door diplomacy in Paris at a time when the Administration is earnestly seeking a peaceful settlement of the war, and especially with such an inept amateur as Salinger.

Secondly, the error was considerably compounded by McGovern's misleading statements about the episode when quizzed by the press. This does not enhance the Democratic standard bearer's already tarnished reputation for "openness" and candor.

McGovern's contention that Salinger's mission was no more detrimental to the Paris peace talks than what he called Henry Kissinger's "highly publicized global junket" overlooks the fact that Kissinger, as the President's national security adviser, is fully authorized to represent the President in talks with foreign officials.

If Senator McGovern expects to be elected president in November, he is going to have to demonstrate a more responsible approach to foreign affairs than he has so far shown voters.

Fair fun

Of the State Fair.
With its noise and its music
Filling the air.
With young and with old.
The interesting faces.
The shouts from the grandstand
Of those watching races;
I like watching children
On a carnival ride.
And I like watching them
Come down the big slide;
The horses and cows.
The food farmers grow.
The home economics.
The lovely flower show.
Sure, we don't like it all.
It's what each likes best.
But we all like the benches
To sit down and rest;
We may not like machinery.
We may not like art.
Our interests are different.
But we're sure to like part.
The old shuttle buses
That keep making their rounds
Are fun and a good way
To get over the grounds.
The hot dogs and hamburgers.
The smell of fried fish.
Or go in and sit down
To a meal, if you wish.
Missouri's wild animals.
Or hogs, rabbits and sheep.
Children laughing or crying
And children asleep.
I love everything
At the Fair that I see
But mostly it's people
That fascinates me.
People exhibiting.
People who spiel.
People who ride
The big Ferris wheel.
People who've worked
To make the Fair great.
The ones selling tickets
To me at the gate.
People I know and
I don't know are there.
All kinds of people
That's what makes a Fair.

A Conservative View

Need moratorium on Vietnam charges

By JAMES J. KILPATRICK

WASHINGTON — If it were written or said of George McGovern that the Democratic nominee "doesn't really want the war in Vietnam to end — not until after the election, anyhow," the statement would be untrue. Whatever may be said in criticism of McGovern, and a vast deal can be said, it would be infamous to imply that he wants to see this miserable struggle prolonged for his own political advantage.

Kilpatrick

It is equally untrue, and equally infamous, to say of President Nixon that he has failed to end the war because of his determination to uphold the "corrupt dictatorship" — the phrase is McGovern's — of South Vietnam's President Thieu. And to charge that Nixon has prolonged the war out of sheer vanity, out of some distorted sense of personal honor, is to engage in contumely on a monstrous scale.

Is it too much to ask, of both sides, that we give credit at least for sincerity? Isn't it time to halt this incessant questioning of motives? Senator McGovern, in my own view, is a humane and decent person who believes deeply that U.S. involvement in Vietnam must be ended at the earliest possible moment, under virtually any terms and conditions. The President, in my own view, is equally humane, equally decent, equally eager to end our commitment. The disagreement comes down, in the end, to the terms and conditions.

The problem that Nixon has had to wrestle with — and heaven knows he has wrestled unceasingly with it — is that it was easy for the U.S. to get into this mess; but it has proved exceedingly hard to get out. And the problem is rooted not in the vanity of Nixon or the greed of Nguyen Van Thieu, but in the intransigence of the enemy in Hanoi.

This is the one factor that has been consistently underestimated all along. Americans by nature love few things quite so much as a really good deal. One hesitates to use the metaphor, for it bears invidious connotations, but Nixon came into office as a used-car salesman with a hot prospect on the lot. Nixon was ready to make a deal that the customer couldn't pass up. He would make a deal the guy would be crazy to turn down. Nobody but nobody would offer a better bargain.

But Hanoi wouldn't buy. To listen to McGovern and his colleagues, the lost sale is entirely the fault of the salesman. All this week we have been regaled with accusations from Sargent Shriver, from Averell Harriman, from Cyrus Vance, that Nixon muffed his chance to close a deal as far back as February of 1969. If Nixon had thrown in anything — an extra spare tire, 50 gallons of gas, an additional warranty — he could have had peace three years ago.

I don't believe it. The one overriding conclusion that has emerged from these years of frustration is that Hanoi simply doesn't want to buy — not on any terms a responsible salesman could accept. The Nixon administration has made at least three separate and well-defined offers, each a little more irresistible (in our eyes) than the one before. If the enemy had accepted any one of these propositions, at the time of offer, the enemy today would be significantly better off.

The most skillful salesman in the world cannot make a profitable sale — or even a break-even sale — to a stubborn prospect whose idea is simply, give it to me. This has been Hanoi's relenting attitude all along. The Communists' goal is conquest of the 39 southern provinces, complete and absolute, under a new government under total Communist control.

Nixon is nothing if not persistent. He is doggedly trying to come up with something. But it is no help to him if in the midst of these earnest efforts he is hampered by Senate resolutions or by political catcalls from the opposition ranks.

Merry-go-round

Anti-Agnew wing readies for '76

By JACK ANDERSON

MIAMI BEACH — No one is holding his breath over the outcome of the Republican convention at Miami Beach. But in the smoke-filled backrooms, the maneuvering already has started over the 1976 presidential nomination.

The Republican faithful, of course, won't challenge President Nixon's choice of Spiro Agnew as his running mate for another term. But this doesn't mean they are ready to accept him as Nixon's successor in 1976.

Agnew has already signalled his intention to move up to the front of the ticket four years from now. But opposition is developing, particularly among GOP moderates. They have dropped quiet hints that Agnew would appeal to the same limited constituency in 1976 as Barry Goldwater did in 1964.

Although Richard Nixon will be a lame-duck President at the 1976 convention, he should still control the party machinery. He could, if he wished, determine who his successor will be.

White House aids tell us the President would not impose his choice upon the party but would remain above the struggle. The anti-Agnew forces, however, are taking no chances. They intend to present their arguments to the President in the months ahead.

They will plead that the party's future could be impaired by an Agnew candidacy and that he should be headed off before he can gain too strong a hold on the party machinery.

The anti-Agnew Republicans also look hopefully to New York's Governor Nelson Rockefeller for support. Agnew was Rockefeller's most vocal champion in the early 1968 presidential maneuvering. But Agnew adroitly switched to Nixon in a manner that won him the vice presidency and lost him Rockefeller's friendship.

Rockefeller, however, has been snuggling up to President Nixon lately and, in the process, has improved his relationship with Agnew. The New York governor, therefore, may not be available to challenge Agnew in the struggle ahead.

Aware of the political axiom that you can't beat somebody with nobody, some Republican moderates are rallying, meanwhile, around Illinois' Senator Charles Percy as the best man to stop Agnew in 1976.

It is perhaps a measure of their desperation that the embryonic Percy for President forces have spread the rumor that Agnew, after getting the vice presidential nomination, will resign and invite the convention to choose someone else.

The reason, according to the rumor, is that Agnew has had his fill of politics and would like to devote himself now to making some money for his family. But he is a proud man — so the story goes — who didn't want to appear to be dropped from the ticket.

A spokesman assured us Agnew is ready with his acceptance speech. Others close to the vice president say he has every intention of using his position for the next four years to consolidate his strength with the party and to go after the presidential prize.

Footnote: Former Secretary of the Treasury John Connally might also challenge Agnew for the presidency. There can be no denying the rivalry between the two men. Connally, apparently, is keeping his options open whether to become a Republican or to remain a Democrat. California's Governor Ronald Reagan also has an eye on the White House. But he could lose his power base in 1974 when his term as governor expires. He has mentioned guardedly that he might run for the Senate against Alan Cranston, D-Calif., who must stand for re-election in 1974. Reagan's popularity in California, however, has been declining.

He is the first to acknowledge, however, that he's no Arnold Plamer. He tells the story on himself about the time he proudly announced to his foreign policy adviser, Henry Kissinger, that he had scored 130.

This is hardly championship golf, but Kissinger wanted to be tactful. He said he was glad the President had enjoyed his golf game.

"I was bowling, Henry," growled the President. His game at the White House bowling alleys, as the score indicated, had been improving.

Footnote: One of the President's most treasured trophies, however, is a golf score card appropriately lacquered and framed. It records the occasion 11 years ago when he scored a hole-in-one at the Bel Air golf course in California. The President is sure to bring it up when the anniversary comes up on Labor Day. What he doesn't usually mention is that he scored a six and a seven on the holes before and after his miraculous shot.

Tricia does the honors

By CYRENE DEAR

WASHINGTON — Tricia Nixon Cox cut the ribbon which opened the headquarters, a block from the White House, of the Committee to Re-Elect the President. Helping her were Clark MacGregor, committee chairman, and Sen. Robert Dole of Kansas, Republican national chairman.

In the window of the new office was a life-size cardboard cut-out of President Nixon greeting a smiling little girl. Unfortunately when we drove by to show this display to a couple of visiting Kentuckians that evening it was no longer there.

When George Romney, secretary of housing and urban development, leaves the Cabinet, there will be only three of President Nixon's original members left, Rogers at State, Laird at Defense and Volpe at Transportation.

The President is making good use of Secretaries Rogers and Laird. Ordinarily Cabinet members are presumed to be above political campaigning. Not so this year. Laird is safe to speak freely because he has already announced that he will not serve in Defense another term. Rogers is sure to be replaced by the mighty Kissinger himself or even Democrat Connally if Nixon is re-elected, so he too can speak his political mind.

Secretary and Mrs. Rogers recently returned from a working trip around the world. She was offered a beautiful Arabian horse in Bahrain, a Persian island. She declined because it was illegal for government officials to accept such gifts. Her real thrill was making a hole-in-one under the eyes of other golfers while recuperating from the long trip at White Sulphur Springs, West Va.

The new Martin Luther King Memorial Library on Ninth and G Streets will soon open with ten times more space than the old library. With a new audio-visual division there will be more films, slides, non-musical records and cassettes, posters and framed art reproductions on loan to library card holders.

The National Press Building has many interesting and unusual tenants. Most of them are connected with newspapers and magazines, but one on the 10th floor is an eye-catcher. It is the Share Your Birthday Foundation. This is part of the People to People organization founded by President Eisenhower 18 years ago. The sister city program is also a part of this organization.

Today's thoughts

"Why do you see the speck that is in your brother's eye, but do not notice the log that is in your own eye? Or how can you say to your brother, 'Let me take the speck out of your eye,' when there is the log in your own eye?" — Matthew 7:3, 4.

The first Indian convert to Christianity in the American colonies was Pocahontas of Virginia. She was converted, baptized and given the Christian name of Rebecca.

The world's largest fur sanctuary is the Pribilof Islands in the Bering Sea. The Pribilofs are the breeding grounds for more than 3.6 million fur seals which come there each spring.

The first paper money issued in the United States consisted of noninterest-bearing treasury notes authorized under acts of Congress passed in 1861.

Art Buchwald

Guess who's coming to dinner?

WASHINGTON — The political campaign is now under way, and we can expect to hear some wild promises made by the presidential and vice-presidential candidates.

Buchwald

Just the other day R. Sargent Shriver told the people of West Virginia that if George McGovern is elected, the poor people would be eating in the White House. He said there would be dinners there for people who need the food, rather than rich fat cats who have been invited to 1600 Pennsylvania Ave. in the past.

I don't know if Shriver checked this out with McGovern, but it could raise some very serious logistical problems if the Democratic nominee is sworn in next January.

Let us assume that McGovern has been elected President.

After he's been in the Wiite House a few days, he says to his wife Eleanor, "We have to give a dinner for the poor people tomorrow night."

"How many will there be?"

"Sarge said 1,300,054 people."

"You've got to be kidding," Eleanor says. "I don't have that many place settings."

"Can't you borrow some from Eunice?"

"Even if I did, we wouldn't have enough room to serve them all."

"Yes, I thought of that. But Sarge promised that the first dinner we had in the White House would be for the poor people, and our credibility is at stake."

"Well, why doesn't HE give the dinner then? He has more money than we do," Eleanor says angrily.

"Because he's not the President. It doesn't have to be a sit-down dinner, you know. It could be buffet."

"I don't care," Eleanor says, "I'm not going in the kitchen and tell the chef to prepare a buffet for 1,300,054 people."

"Couldn't we have it catered?" McGovern asks.

"This is ridiculous. We'll use up our entire entertainment allowance in our first dinner. What are we going to do for the rest of the four years?"

"Maybe we could freeze the leftovers," McGovern suggests.

"I still say Sarge got into this — let him get out of it," Eleanor says.

"How about the strolling Air Force Strings for entertainment?" McGovern asks.

"You said you were going to cut them out of the defense budget," Eleanor reminds him.

"Oh yes, I forgot that. Did I promise to cut the Marine band, too?"

"Down to one French horn and two tuba players."

"Hmm. Maybe Warren Beatty can rustle up the Grateful Dead."

"George, I don't think this is going to work. More than 25 million people in this country go to bed hungry every night. You can't just invite 1,300,054 and not expect the others to be very angry."

"Well, you can't have EVERY poor person in the country to the White House," McGovern says. "It would be impractical."

"Why didn't you tell that to Shriver before he opened his mouth in West Virginia?"

"Maybe we could have the 1,300,054 for dinner and invite the rest in for coffee and dessert."

"All right," says Eleanor, "I'll do it. But Sarge has to address the invitations."

Freudian Thought Is Starting Point For All Mental Illness Disputes

EDITOR'S NOTE—Federal health officials estimate one out of 10 Americans have experienced "a serious emotional breakdown or felt themselves close to it." The weak, the wealthy, the poor, the powerful—all susceptible. How to help them has become a many sided squabble. All sides—even the ones who say he is dead—draw on the man who started the argument: Sigmund Freud.

By JOHN BARBOUR
AP Newsfeatures Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — He invented the psychoanalyst, the man with the couch, the listener with a note pad, the detective of dreams, always out of sight of his reclining patient but never really out of mind.

In this nervous world he created a new lexicon of the mind—id, ego, superego, pain-pleasure, transference, libido, Oedipus complex, the interpretation of dreams and slips of the tongue.

His name was Sigmund Freud. He probed deep into the hidden hearts and souls of his patients to uncover fear and tragedy, to help build reasonable defenses against them in the full light of consciousness.

Reasonable defenses. The full light of consciousness. The U.S. Public Health Service estimates that 20 million Americans—one out of every 10—have experienced "a serious emotional breakdown or felt themselves close to it."

These quakings in the face of everyday adversity are not easily dismissed by the individual facing them.

There are 25,000 psychiatrists in the United States. Not all of them treat patients. But if they did, and they treated six a day, that would mean that 150,000 Americans felt troubled enough to pay up to $100 per treatment for professional care that used to be dispensed by the pastor, the parent or the friend.

Freud died in 1939 in London at the age of 83. Today, more than 30 years after his death, psychiatrists and laymen are asking the question, "Is Freud dead?"

What would have happened if Freud had not lived?

Said one psychiatrist who uses Freud's techniques only sparingly, "If you were to remove this man from history it would have the same devastating effect as removing Thomas Edison."

Others would not go so far. But almost all—enemies and disciples alike—acknowledge psychiatry's debt to the goateed, white-haired wizard who first made sense out of the tangle of human emotions.

At the very least he systematized the way we look at the mind. His prime argument was that we live with a dynamic unconscious, and that it is a major force in our behavior and, when we become emotionally ill, a major force in illness.

Some essentials in Freudian theory:

—The id, totally below the conscious surface of the mind. It is the heartland of primitive drives which demand gratification no matter what.

—The superego, some of it conscious, some of it unconscious. This is conscience, what we accept of social and ethical values, our personal judge over good and bad, whose verdicts are self-esteem or guilt.

—The ego, caught between them. It synthesizes our behavior from the drives of id, the frigid standards of superego. It is the way we finally appear to the outside world, the part that shows of our true personality.

If Descartes' proof of existence was "I think, therefore I am," then Freud's theory of the mind could be put, "I think, even when I don't know I think, and that's what I really am."

For instance, in correspondence with an American physician, Freud was asked to comment on a certain dream the American had. The American doctor diagrammed the dream and tried his own interpretation. He was in a dog cart (D) on a hill (A-B) but traveling a path (F-G.) All at once in the dream he left his safe path down the steep slope and headed for another point (3) through marshy, treacherous ground.

Freud agreed with the American's self-analysis—that the dog-cart which had belonged to his brother indicated a dependency on, yet a protest against his more successful sibling; and indications of repressed fantasies of rich sexual fulfillment.

Then, he added, "It strikes me that you have used the letters A-B-D-E-F-G in your drawing, but omitted C. Unfortunately I neglected to ask your wife's name."

A slip of the pen? Freud had a ready eye for the acts of that subtle ghost, the subconscious.

That was Freud's chief contribution to psychiatry and it remains extant. The technique of psychoanalysis with its emphasis on sexual drives, and some added theories such as self-destruction become the point of departure for many who today oppose Freudian theory.

How important is infantile experience? Does a man's emotional life pivot on his early relationship to his father, his mother? Are sexual drive and aggression the major propellants of human life? Does a person's superego unconsciously or consciously struggle to repress his drive? Does a human have an unconscious desire to self-destruct?

There are many other schools of thought.

There are those who believe behavior can be trained, made acceptable. In some cases you can resort to electro-shock. In some cases to rewards. Negative reactions receive negative stimuli. Positive reactions receive positive stimuli. It makes two important points. You do not accept the individual as he comes randomly from the crucible of his own experience. You train him to behave as you would have him behave.

Then there is psychiatry and psychotherapy in all of their manifestations. When an individual cannot cope with his circumstances, then change the circumstances, or patch up the holes in his character, or give him confidence, or help him remeasure his life. Psychiatry, though it may not reach as far as psychoanalysis, does try to search out the hang-ups and free an individual from them.

The Other Self

Sigmund Freud contemplates a bust of himself sculpted for his 75th birthday by O. Nemon, center, and presented to him in 1931 in the garden of his village home in Potzlein near Vienna. Freud was the father of psychoanalysis whose studies of the subconscious changed the whole concept of man's mind. Today, over 30 years after his death, his ideas are still enough alive to be a topic of interest. And his understanding of human emotions has pervaded American thinking and social action. (AP)

Nevertheless, in all of these alternatives, there is a different notion of the mind of man than there was before Freud.

"Up until Freud, motivation was only considered in the conscious," explains Dr. Edward Brennan, a New York psychoanalyst.

"You explained a man's success or failure on whether he had good blood or bad, or fortune smiled on him or didn't.

Freud's concept was that behavior that was hard to understand was not the result of devils or humours."

And before Freud in America, says Brennan, there was a simplistic idea of good and evil. Today it is more difficult to find the good guys and bad guys. Now they are identified as the better guys, the functioning guys, and the sick guys, or the guys who need help.

"We now believe that personality and character are a constellation of techniques and effects that enable a person to cope with his external world and his internal world. When one's unconscious is so loaded it erupts and symptoms arise."

"Freud is certainly not dead," says Dr. Lawrence Kolb of Columbia Presbyterian Hospital in New York. "His theories have been incorporated into a very large body of psychiatry... Since the field is now 75 years old, his discoveries are no longer new. There is a problem in sorting them out."

Critics of psychoanalysis worry about its possible shortsightedness, or possible oversightedness. Perhaps all emotional and mental trouble is not in the id. Perhaps man can master his fate, captain his soul without three to 10 years under analysis. Perhaps the trouble is chemical or biological, and not the imprisonment of a disagreeable experience.

Critics say the psychoanalyst is reluctant to call in a tranquilizer, or to have a patient's thyroid checked, or his blood sugar. In short he may neglect that the neurosis could have a serious biological origin. The psychoanalyst in return may point to the wholesale use of drugs for mental illness as shotgun or bandaid therapy.

The arguments, of course, go deeper. But the impressive element is that after 75 years Freud is still arguable, which is to say that although his theories did not satisfy everyone, no one has come up with ideas to supplant him. Freud himself suggested he was waiting for someone to come up with a chemical or organic answer to mental problems. Analysis was a sto-gap.

There is a practical reason for the decline in psychoanalysis as a treatment of choice—the cost. For young men who want to practice analysis, a long analysis for themselves is necessary. It can run some $7,500 a year, although they may defray some of the expenses by treating others.

Nevertheless, some informal studies are reported to show that the number of candidates seeking analytical training is on the decline, largely for that reason.

But whatever happens to psychoanalysis in its contentions with other treatment, it is hardly the only measure of Freud's influence. If the couch is no longer the sine qua non of psychiatric treatment, Freud's understanding of human emotions has pervaded American thinking and social action.

South was an expert playing duplicate with a beginner for a partner. Hence, South wasted little time on scientific bidding and quickly set the contract at six hearts after his partner opened with one no-trump.

Our expert didn't like what he saw when dummy hit the table. Not that there was anything wrong with the six-heart contract, but rather that there were 12 top tricks at either no-trump or hearts and that the field was going to be in the no-trump slam.

It was up to our expert to find a way to make seven hearts and after a little study he saw a way to score the extra trick provided one opponent held the long spade and the other the long diamond.

He drew trumps, discarding a club from dummy and noted East's diamond discard. Three rounds of diamonds came next (the third being ruffed) and when West discarded a club, business was looking up. Next came ace-king of spades and a spade ruff and now our expert decided to impress his partner.

Spreading his hand he announced, "Seven on a squeeze if West holds the jack of spades."

Then he led his last trump. West had to discard another club to hold the spade jack and dummy's last spade was discarded next. East was now in trouble and had to throw a club to keep the high diamond and South had his overtrick and good score. His small club had become a winner.

Charges Denied By Army

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army has rejected an accusation that the personal interest of Gen. William C. Westmoreland blocked prosecution for the My Lai massacre from going higher than Lt. William L. Calley.

The Army's answer Friday was in a brief filed with the Army Court of Military Review. The brief disputed an appeal filed with the court April 30 by Calley's attorney, George Latimer of Salt Lake City.

The Army's brief called Latimer's charge that Westmoreland had a personal interest in the case a "red herring."

"The vehemence with which the appellant develops his assigned error is indicative of the fact that the error is merely a red herring through which the appellant is attempting to sustain a collateral finding of moral, if not legal, guilt on the part of Gen. Westmoreland," the Army said.

Westmoreland was the U.S. commander in Vietnam at the time of the My Lai slayings in March 1968 and later served as Army Chief of Staff.

Calley, 28, convicted last year of murdering at least 22 civilians at My Lai, is under house arrest at Ft. Benning, Ga., where the trial was held. His life sentence has already been reduced to 20 years. President Nixon has said he will personally review the case after legal remedies have been exhausted.

The Army also asserted that despite the publicity surrounding the My Lai incident and subsequent trials, the jurors were able to render a fair and impartial judgment.

The Army also rejected all of Latimer's arguments accusing the Army of 32 errors in the court-martial.

The next stage in legal proceedings will be oral arguments before the court, which will be scheduled probably for some time in the fall, the Army said.

People In The News

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Alabama Gov. George Wallace is expected to resume his physical therapy program Monday, a spokesman at University Hospital says.

Doctors said Friday that an abscess in Wallace's abdominal cavity, which was drained Wednesday, is not infected and is expected to heal without complications.

The operation was Wallace's second for an abscess problem in less than one month. The governor is recuperating from bullet wounds that felled him while he was campaigning for the Democratic presidential nomination in Laurel, Md., May 15.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Entertainer Elvis Presley has sued his wife, Priscilla, for divorce, citing irreconcilable differences.

The suit was filed Friday by one of Presley's attorneys in Santa Monica Superior Court. The couple has been married five years.

The entertainer said that his wife will have custody of their 4-year-old daughter, Lisa. Presley said in the suit a major reason for the divorce was the pressure of his traveling half the year.

SAN GABRIEL, Calif. (AP) — Patricia Kinne has relinquished her Miss California-World crown after three weeks, saying contest officials "treated me like a product."

Miss Kinne said she had not received many of the prizes promised at the coronation three weeks ago.

"I felt degraded," she said. "I was treated terribly."

The first runnerup and next in line to represent California in the Miss World-USA pageant at Hampton, Va., next month is Miki J. Garcia of Sacramento.

Contest officials were not available for comment.

Nixon Wins on Prices

NEW YORK (AP) — The Nixon Administration tried this past week to talk the automobile industry out of price increases for 1973 models. General Motors Corp., the industry's acknowledged pacesetter, responded by scaling down its increase proposal.

Meanwhile, the Pay Board announced it would not change its wage-boost guideline of 5.5 per cent a year, RCA announced a contract to build a second satellite communications earth station at Peking and the American Telephone & Telegraph Co. raised its dividend.

The White House entered the auto picture Tuesday, recommending "strongly" that the requested price increases of $90 and $150 a car be withdrawn.

Following a round of meetings in Washington with key auto executives, the Cost of Living Council said that each firm has been asked to reconsider its applications to the Price Commission for increases.

American Motors Corp. said it would not "voluntarily" withdraw its request to raise prices. And Lynn Townsend, chairman of Chrysler Corp. called the White House pressure "arbitrary and discriminatory against the automobile industry."

But late Thursday General Motors announced that it would resubmit its application to the Price Commission with scaled down increase requests.

Ford Motor Co., the No. 2 automaker, was still to be heard from.

There had been some expectations that the Pay Board would tighten its guidelines on wage increases, but the Board announced this week that it would continue unchanged.

In announcing the decision, the Board said the evidence showed that the actual behavior of wages during Phase 2 had been consistent with the general pay standard of 5.5 per cent.

According to the board, the weighted average increase of wages and salaries approved since Nov. 14, 1971, had been 5 per cent.

On Thursday, RCA Global Communications Inc. said it had signed a $5.7 million contract to build a second satellite communications earth station at Peking, and expand an existing one in Shanghai.

The three million common stockholders of AT&T received good news Wednesday when the company announced it was raising its quarterly dividend a nickel to 70 cents.

Shriver Says His Office Was Bugged

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democratic vice presidential nominee Sargent Shriver claims his law offices were bugged, but the supposed victim of the bugging says it's not so.

Shriver departed from his prepared speech text to tell a Philadelphia audience Friday night, "The FBI came in to screen my office ... to sweep it."

That was done, he said, because eavesdroppers "had been in there bugging the line."

Later, Shriver's press secretary, Donald McClure, said Shriver referred to an eavesdropping device found in the office telephone of his law partner, Patricia Roberts Harris, also prominent in party affairs and chairman of the Democratic National Convention's Credentials Committee.

He said FBI agents removed the device from her telephone.

Questioned about the report early Saturday, Mrs. Harris said, "I don't think that is accurate."

She confirmed that the investigation took place, but said no bugging equipment was found in her office.

"I was not informed that any bug was found in my office," she added.

Shriver raised the subject in discussing the June break-in at Democratic National Committee headquarters which, then, was located in the Watergate complex.

Five men, including the former security director of President Nixon's campaign organization, were charged with the DNC break-in. Eavesdropping equipment was confiscated from them at the time of the arrests.

Neither Shriver nor McClure elaborated further on the incident.

But Mrs. Harris suggested that Shriver had been misinformed and related this account:

Sometime prior to the DNC break-in, there was an attempt to break into the law offices shared by her, Shriver, and Max Kampelman, also a prominent Democrat.

"We didn't think it was anything other than a routine robbery," she said.

But, after the DNC incident, she suggested a "sweep" of the offices "on the off chance" that the two incidents were related, she continued.

She said she asked the DNC to arrange for the investigation and assumes it was the FBI which conducted it.

Voice Trepidation Over SALT Pact

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House has approved the five-year U.S.-Soviet missile freeze with only seven dissenting votes but more numerous expressions of trepidation.

The resolution passed 329-7 Friday, although several House members voiced concern that it might allow the Soviets to achieve nuclear superiority.

The action came as Congress adjourned until Sept. 5 for the Republican National Convention and Labor Day.

"I just pray this will not be a nuclear Yalta," said Rep. Roman C. Pucinski, D-Ill., who voted with the majority, as did most others who voiced similar fears.

Senate approval remains stalled over an amendment proposed by Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., urging President Nixon to seek U.S.-Soviet equality in weapons numbers in any permanent treaty replacing the interim accord. The Senate takes up the measure after the congressional recess.

The five-year agreement signed by Nixon and Soviet Communist party chief Leonid Brezhnev in Moscow May 26 freezes land- and sea-based intercontinental missiles plus missile-firing submarines at the totals in existence now or under construction.

The Russians are limited to 1,618 land missiles and up to 62 submarines with up to 950 missiles, the United States at 1,054 land missiles and up to 44 submarines with up to 710 missiles.

Both sides are permitted to replace and improve the submarine missiles, including equipping them with multiple warheads.

Warheads and other weapons including shortrange missiles and bombers are not covered by the agreement.

House Foreign Affairs Chairman Thomas E. Morgan, D-Pa., said the five-year agreement could save the United States $2 billion a year by slowing down the arms race.

Pucinski and Rep. Samuel S. Stratton, D-N.Y., said the agreement's curb on the Soviet missile buildup was the reason they voted for it even though they are concerned it might enable the Soviets to overtake U.S. missile strength.

Stratton said the agreement has "a lot of loopholes" including allowing the Soviets to put multiple warheads on their more numerous and larger missiles and thus overtake the superior number of U.S. warheads.

He complained that the agreement does not cover Soviet guided cruise missiles which he said could destroy U.S. coastal cities without warning.

Tricky Landing Made Safely By Airliner

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "It was like landing on eggshells," said an official who described the touchdown of a Delta Airlines 747 jetliner that blew a tire on takeoff from International Airport.

The jetliner, with 255 persons aboard, made a safe landing when it returned to the airport Friday after dumping most of its fuel load over the desert. Officials said the blowout punched two small holes in the bottom of the right wing, but caused no structural damage.

The pilot, Capt. Elmer Bennett, 54, said he heard a noise on liftoff and felt a slight vibration in the Boeing 747, the largest aircraft in regular commercial service. He dumped the fuel, made a low pass over the airport to get word on the damage, then made the landing.

Shooting Is Fatal For St. Louis Man

ST. LOUIS (AP)– Emmitt Spiller, 38, of St. Louis was shot to death early Saturday. Police said he was involved in an argument at the home of Oscar Person, 48, and Person obtained a shotgun and fired it at Spiller.

Spiller, hit in the neck and chest, was dead on arrival at Homer G. Phillips Hospital. Person was held on homicide charges.

What do people watching a demolition derby have in common with each other? Fidgety fingers, pounding heart, excitement ever running high and polluted air. It's the same reason why people go to see wrestling — the din and suspense of clashing, in this case weird-looking automobiles knocking each other out, their sides falling apart and their ends fuming. These spectators at the demolition derby at the Missouri State Fair raise their voices to a feverish pitch, telling race drivers what to do.

Grandmaster Views Fischer With Awe

REYKJAVIK, Iceland (AP) — The international grandmasters sat brooding before the closed circuit TV in the press room as Bobby Fischer relentlessly closed in on Boris Spassky's king in the 15th game of the world chess championship.

"Rook to queen two," urged Larry Evans, stroking his beard in Shakespearean anguish.

The Rev. William Lombardy, the Roman Catholic priest and international grandmaster from the Bronx who serves as Fischer's second, viewed the end-game maneuver with biblical awe.

"He passeth the piece that passeth all understanding," the priest punned gravely.

Father Lombardy's constant cool and rollicking good humor seem to have a soothing effect on the moody Brooklyn genius, although some think his forthright manner and outspoken wit might one day put the two on a collision course.

As his close personal friend since both were kids playing at the Manhattan Chess Club, Father Lombardy often chauffeurs Fischer out to the Sports Palace, bowls with him late at night and spends hours into early dawn analyzing moves and positions with him.

After move 12 in Tuesday's 14th game, which also happened to be the Feast of Assumption, Father Lombardy left the arena long enough to celebrate mass at St. Joseph's Hospital. He got back to the hall in time for the famous "double blunders" by Boris and Bobby that led to the draw.

"There's a lovely German phrase for goofing in a big match," the priest explained. "Finger fehler—the fingers fail to follow what the mind commands. There's a broken connection somewhere to the brain."

Father Lombardy, who once was regarded as a more promising prodigy than Fischer, remembers a finger fehler at Ventura, Calif., last year that cost him the U.S. Open title, which he had won twice before.

"I went into the last game with a half point lead in first place," he said without a sigh, "and that one move cost me $1,200. It was the most expensive move I ever made in my life."

He won U.S. Opens in 1963 and 1965.

Father Lombardy spends his priestly days teaching English literature and second-year theology at Cardinal Hayes High School in the Bronx.

Said one of his fellow American masters, "Don't quote me or he'll issue a thunderbolt, but this guy is really some different kind of a chess nut. Every grandmaster thinks every blunder is the end of the world, but this guy, being a priest, is prepared for that eventuality."

Fischer and Spassky play their 16th game in the 24-game series Sunday with Fischer leading 9-6 after a draw Friday. Fischer needs only 3½ more points to take the crown.

McGovern Complains of Attacks

WASHINGTON (AP) — George McGovern says he's becoming something of a dartboard for a cadre of Nixon administration lieutenants while the President "pretends that he doesn't even know about there being an election going on."

"You know, they're shooting at me from all sides," the Democratic presidential nominee said in an interview Friday after a swing through the Midwest.

The White House, McGovern said, "has about 15 people taking potshots at me."

McGovern agreed that his own rhetoric has taken on a sharp edge as well, but said "I'm not asking other people to do it for me."

"One day it's the President's press secretary, the next day it's the secretary of defense or the secretary of state," the senator said.

"I think their strategy is to keep about 15 people taking potshots at me from various angles at one time, while the President pretends that he doesn't even know about there being an election going on."

"But we'll smoke him out eventually," said McGovern, adding he still has hopes that Nixon would agree to a series of face-to-face debates in September and October.

McGovern conceded that his tour of Ohio, Illinois and Wisconsin was "a week of ups and downs." He was to spend the weekend at home before breaking precedent and heading out again next week during the GOP National Convention.

His organization, he said, "is going through a kind of shakedown cruise, where the campaign is moving from the type of thing we did in the primaries to the much more difficult question of dealing with 50 states simultaneously."

Among the lessons learned, he said, was that "we have to be more cautious about public statements."

That was a reference to the flap which resulted when McGovern first denied, then confirmed, that he had asked Pierre Salinger to ascertain from Hanoi's negotiators whether the Communists might release any American prisoners before the fighting ends. The answer was no.

FOR JOHN W. GARDNER,
chairman of Common Cause

I understand you're against Congress's "seniority system." Why?—R. Bennett, Dubuque, Iowa

● Seniority enables Representatives and Senators who are out of sympathy with the national party to maintain an iron grip on committee chairmanships and ranking minority positions. From these positions they can sabotage legislative programs of their own constituents, since the chairmen usually come from safe, one-party districts, are nominated "in the back room" and face no significant opposition in either primary or general elections. Scholars and journalists who study Congress often grow fond of the "quaintness" of the seniority system. But that affection is not shared by citizens who are trying to accomplish something.

FOR MARTHA MITCHELL,
wife of former Attorney General John Mitchell

When did you first realize that your life as the wife of a Cabinet member would be different from the life of the wife of a private citizen?—J. J. S., Cambridge, Md.

● I think it was the day my husband John asked me how much a certain item I'd purchased had cost. When he was an attorney on Wall Street, he never asked me that question.

FOR ERNEST BORGNINE

You've played some of the nicest and some of the meanest guys on the screen. Which do you prefer?—V. L., Gulfport, Miss.

● Playing baddies has helped me philosophically and psychologically. Frankly, I think it's better to vent one's anger in a movie role than it is to, say, beat your wife. All of us have something we want to get out of our systems. Playing bad guys gives you a relief.

FOR EVA GABOR

How many languages do you speak?—S. S., La Porte, Texas

● I'm Hungarian-born and speak English, French, German and Hungarian. My favorite is English.

FOR HUGH O'BRIAN, star of NBC's "Probe"

How do you feel about men doing nude scenes? Would you?—N. J. D., Bluefield, W. Va.

● I was offered a centerfold in a magazine that shall remain nameless, but turned it down. I wouldn't play a completely nude scene any more than I'd walk down the street in the nude. I think motion pictures are a public medium, therefore I wouldn't do it.

FOR EARL WILSON, columnist

● Sure. If I follow a hunch, I'm almost always right. Back in '68 I had a hunch Onassis was about to get married. I bumped into him at El Morocco and asked if he planned to marry Maria Callas. But he said, "No, I've been married." I figured my hunch was wrong. Three days later I heard he was marrying Jackie Kennedy. If I hadn't allowed his words to put me off, I'd have tracked down that romance.

FOR TAYLOR CALDWELL, authoress

Do you believe that most women want to be treated as equal or superior to men?—L. W., Lancaster, N.Y.

● No. Most women just want men to love and respect them, to protect and honor them, and to lead them. When they are cheated of these things they become bitter and turn to Women's Liberation. And I don't blame them for that.

FOR EDITH HEAD, fashion designer

Why don't you wear contact lenses?—J. N., Whittier, Calif.

● I've worn glasses all of my life, and since I'm photographed a great deal and make many television appearances, I've used my glasses, with their rather old-fashioned tortoise rims, as a "trademark." In fact, I once was photographed without them, and people didn't recognize me.

FOR GEORGE MEANY, labor leader

Isn't runaway inflation—led by labor's demands—our most pressing current problem?—J. W. K., Little Ferry, N.J.

● The most pressing problem today is not inflation but unemployment. People without jobs are a drain on the economy in two ways. They can't afford to buy goods. Second, they pay no taxes. When people are working, they can buy – and this boosts sales and production, reducing the pressure on costs and prices.

FOR JIM BROWN, actor

I've heard a lot of different definitions of "soul food." What's yours?—B. L., Florence, Ala.

● Soul food is a figment of people's imagination. The best theory I've heard is that it is supposed to be parts of animals that the masters didn't want to eat—the guts, feet, tails, and so on. This became the diet of slaves. Nowadays, soul food is any inexpensive food made to taste as well as it can under the circumstances. As for myself, I don't mind eating black-eyed peas and rice, but you would never catch me eating chitlings [hog guts] no matter what it's called.

Report to the FW Woman

This week, Women's Editor Rosalyn Abrevaya gives some pointers in picking back-to-school wardrobes for girls, because: "I don't think it's enough just to show pretty pictures of little girls in fashionable dresses and say, 'Here, Mom, buy this, buy that.' After all, there is such a thing as a family budget! The trick is to keep little Nancy's wardrobe fresh and varied—and not go bankrupt doing it!"

Back-to-School Fashions: The Wise Way to Shop with Your Child

• First check the closet for last year's fashions that are still wearable.

• Think in "basics"—separates that pair together; what can be added to your child's existing wardrobe.

• Look for wide hems and choose clothes that can grow with the kids (for example, the new cuffed pants can be let down as height increases).

• Be sure to select an assorted wardrobe—not too many slacks at the expense of skirts or dresses. Or too many stripes, plaids or florals, and not enough solid colors. Tops should do double duty worn over slacks or skirts.

• Choose clothes in easy-care fabrics, which are steadily growing in number. This season, wool look-alikes of brushed synthetic fibers pop right into the washing machine.

• Make the shopping trip educational and fun, pointing out the details of a well-made outfit, discussing budget.

• In accessories, a basic wardrobe of shoes should consist of two for school, one for dress-up and a pair of boots. Pantyhose and knee-highs in a variety of colors are good for mixing and matching.

• With five school days a week, girls like to wear something different every day. Don't forget the wardrobe expanders—little items such as hair ribbons, detachable collars and cuffs, belts.

• As for fashion trends, the "kiddy" look is out in favor of young sophistication. The layered look of smocks, pinafores, vests and short-sleeved "shrinks" over bright blouses clearly takes its cue from grown-up styles.

This back-to-echooler knows the "classics" have returned. Tartan-plaid dress, by Betsy Daniels for Shutterbug, in red, blue and green, is trimmed with white Puritan collar and cuffs.

The smock will be big fashion this season. Here, natural-cotton hopsacking dress features checked gingham, rickrack and embroidered flowers and fruit. Betsy Daniels for Shutterbug.

I'm Happily Married!
(And That's the Problem)

By Sloan Wilson

Jessica (8), Betty and Sloan Wilson on the outdoor swing at the family's recently acquired home in Ticonderoga, N.Y., where they bask in warmth and happiness that the book world finds a little bit disconcerting—not to mention unbelievable.

Not long ago I decided to write a novel about a happy marriage. It seemed a marvelous idea because so many books are written about miserable marriages, fights with flying crockery, adultery, recriminations, divorce and all the rest. Why not present an honest picture of a man and wife who really love each other?

The story was a lot of fun to put on paper and it took only about six months to complete. When it was all neatly typed, I delivered it to my editor and happily went home to await his reaction. This was not long in coming. The next day he called up and said, "Can you come down and see me?"

"Sure," I replied, certain that he wanted to shake my hand, press money upon me, or perhaps, in European fashion, kiss me on both cheeks before pinning some sort of medal on my chest. When I entered his office I was astonished to find an extremely glum man.

"There's no use in beating about the bush," he began. "This is the worst thing you ever wrote."

Weakly I sank down on the nearest chair.

"In fact," he went on, "to be perfectly frank, it is one of the worst manuscripts I have ever read."

"Why?" I gasped.

"It is completely unbelievable and unbearably sentimental."

"Oh."

"It is unrealistic. Fatuous fantasy."

"Some people survive when they jump from skyscrapers, but it doesn't make believable fiction."

"Good marriages can't be that rare!"

"Even so, you can't make drama out of them. To have drama, you have to have conflict, and conflict is what a happy marriage doesn't have."

"A happily married couple could have conflict with circumstances, such as poverty."

"If your characters happily endure poverty, you are writing about a never-never land. My advice to you is, forget fantasy. Go back to your usual stuff. Write novels based on your own life."

There was a short but embarrassing silence.

"I have a confession to make . . . ," I began.

"You mean that this is something you wrote 30 years ago and just dusted off for me now?"

"No. I just wrote it. And it is based on my own life. You see, I really am happily married."

"I thought you got divorced and all that."

"That was ten years ago. I guess I got mature or something. My second marriage is as happy as my first was miserable."

"You mean that you and your second wife don't fight and yell at each other?"

"Hardly ever. We just try to make each other's life as pleasant as possible. She's really a wonderful woman."

This time the silence was longer and more embarrassing. It was obvious that I had said something fatuous, sentimental, and in inexcusably bad taste. The editor lit a cigarette ner-

SLOAN WILSON is the author of "The Man in the Gray Flannel Suit," a title that became part of the English language, and has written many other successful novels. He is a frequent contributor to FAMILY WEEKLY.

A noted author learns, the hard way, that happiness may be two people's greatest blessing—but it isn't what sells books.

vously. I could see that he was thinking that the hardest part of his job was dealing with writers in person.

"I'm so happy for you," he said dryly. "That must be nice for you as a man, but take it from me, it's terrible for you as a writer."

"Why?"

"It robs you of your sophistication. Worse than that, it removes you from the human race. A happily married writer is like a writer who has inherited a lot of money: He learns nothing about the struggling masses."

"You don't think you're being just a little too cynical?"

"If you want to tell me that your wife is a wonderful woman and you're just happy, happy, happy all the time, go ahead. Just don't put that stuff in books and expect me to sell them."

"OK," I said miserably.

Deeply dejected, I put my manuscript under my arm and walked home.

"What's the matter, dear?" my wife asked after one glance at my face.

"He turned the book down."

"The idiot! Why?"

"He says a happy marriage is unbelievable and sentimental. Also bad drama. You can't have drama without conflict."

"I'll give him conflict," she said. "I'll bash his ears."

"How can that be?"

"Happiness never looks real on paper. That's why so many books are full of misery."

"Why can't people believe in happiness?"

"Because it is rare, I guess, and because miserable couples pretend to be happy so frequently. Anyone who says he's happy is suspected of protesting too much."

"Are you pretending?"

"No. Are you?"

"Will it make me more believable if I admit that I'm miserable sometimes?"

"When?"

"When you go away on business trips. I can't stand to have you out of the house for more than an hour."

The Wilsons: "Because I love you," she said, "I have to give you up for the sake of your career!"

"That would look terrible on paper."

"Fatuous?"

"I'm afraid so. But only when written. It sounds marvelous to my ears."

"Do you feel miserable when I leave the house?" she asked.

"Actually, I feel great. I enjoy a great sense of freedom when you go. I can drink all I want, drop ashes on the floor and make passes at the cleaning lady."

"That sounds terrible, but I suppose that it would look realistic on paper."

"Do you really feel marvelous when I go out?" she asked wistfully.

"Actually I'm very uneasy till you get home. You'd be surprised to know how hard it is to find a cleaning lady as sexy as you are."

"Bad taste," she said. "Fatuous."

"Yep."

"What are you going to do if no one will publish your book?"

"I guess we'll have to get a divorce so I'll have something to write about."

"Couldn't you remember some of the fights you used to have with your first wife?"

"To tell the truth I've sort of forgotten, and what little I remember doesn't sound very realistic. I can't imagine why we used to work so hard at making each other miserable."

"Couldn't you make up something terrible about us? After all, you are supposed to be writing fiction, aren't you?"

"My editor wants fiction based on my own life. That's the only kind that is really convincing."

"Couldn't we just try having a terrible fight and making up?"

"People don't believe in happy endings anymore."

"So you have to be miserable to write novels?"

"It looks that way. After all, most writers live messed-up lives. It's the secret of their success."

"So I have to mess up your life to help you with your work?"

"I can see no other answer."

"Couldn't I make you just a little unhappy by being sort of nagging sometimes? I mean, leaving you would be terribly upsetting."

"If you're going to do a thing, do it right."

"Then I guess we're through," she said. "Because I love you, I have to give you up for the sake of your career!"

"It seems a pity. You're such a pretty girl."

"Nobody says that to his wife. You're supposed to snarl something realistic and sophisticated."

"But the reality is that you are pretty and wise and warm and that you have a marvelous sense of humor. I always feel great when I wake up in the morning and find you in bed next to me."

"Why?"

"Well, my work isn't going very well, and I'm growing old and ugly, but I must be quite a man to rate a woman like you."

"Don't worry. Your work will go better when I leave. It won't take you long to get over all this stultifying happiness."

"After I write one novel about my misery will you come back?"

"I don't know. How long will it take you to do the book?"

"Maybe a year or two. I always drink a lot when I'm unhappy, and that slows me down."

"I don't know what will happen to me. You know how I hate to be alone, and I don't think I'll ever find another man who is so nice to me."

"I can't let you go," I said bravely. "The hell with my career. Love comes first."

"But you'll be miserable if you can't write, and we'll be poor."

"We'll just live on love," I said.

"At our age? That really is fatuous."

"We'll starve. We'll live in a garret. Our life will be full of conflict."

"You'll be sort of a struggling old writer?"

"Exactly."

"I'm leaving," she said and went to the closet for her coat.

"Come back! You don't really love me! We have conflict!"

"Shut up and start typing," she said.

An Easy Tuna Salad With a Gourmet Taste

This week, Food Editor Marilyn Hanson suggests a special kind of tuna salad because: "I really think it's a shame people always treat tuna salad in the same old way. Actually, tuna salad is served in some of France's finest three-star restaurants. This Tuna Salad Nicoise is a gourmet-style recipe that's simplicity itself. (Nicoise means 'of the city of Nice.') I like to serve this salad at home as either a luncheon or else a light supper."

The moment you peel most fruit, it's vulnerable. Discoloration begins. Flavors slip away. That's why peeled fruits need the protection of Fruit-Fresh. To lock out browning and lock in flavor.

Peel fruit into solution of 3 tablespoons of Fruit-Fresh to each 2 quarts of water.

By Lulu DiTullio—as told to Ruth L. McCarthy

Here I am holding my son, hoping he'd cover up some of those 233 pounds.

It was hard to tell which I looked more like: a fat donut or a pregnant bowling ball. Whichever one, at 233 pounds, the scales were tipped against me. I knew it. My husband knew it. My family knew it. But at that moment in my life, it seemed almost hopeless to do anything about it.

My husband, Bob, and I are both Italian Americans by birth and we were raised to know that Sunday is family day. Everybody goes "home" for feeds. Lasagna, macaroni, pizza, pastry and in my father's house, donuts. That's his business—donuts—so there was always a bagful to take when I left.

My husband was lucky enough to be in the Marine reserves the first few years of our marriage. Drill sessions burned up his fat, but mine just went straight to my stomach or to my thighs. Besides, with two very young children, I couldn't get out much, so I watched TV a lot. For me, that meant another slice of cake with each commercial break until I was completely out of shape.

I remember one time when my husband and I were waiting for a table at a restaurant. The hostess took one look at me and offered me a seat. "She probably thinks you're pregnant," Bob said. I wanted to cry.

I wasn't pregnant then, but I blamed the pill for making me fat. Unfortunately, the doctor didn't agree. He said maybe it could account for five to ten pounds. But sixty or seventy? Never. Still, I kept on making it my excuse, especially when my husband stopped taking me out.

Even my relatives made sarcastic remarks when they saw how I had ballooned up. Once we were all looking at a picture taken at my cousin's shower and my aunt said: "Who's the fat one over there?" Then there were other cracks, like: "You've got such a pretty face!" And they'd stop there.

You see, I always fussed with my hair and make-up, so I never really looked like a slob—at least from the neck up. I just avoided looking at myself from the shoulders down. That's until we moved to our new home in Upper Darby, Pa. In our living room, we've got a wall-to-wall mirror. One day, I was sitting on the sofa, when suddenly I saw myself in the mirror. Ugh! I said: "Look at that big thing!" It really disgusted me.

I think that's when I decided to try those reducing-plan candies, Ayds®. My brother had used them while he was in the service. And when I learned that Ayds contain vitamins and minerals, but no drugs, I bought a box of the chocolate fudge kind at the drugstore. Then I started on the Ayds plan right away.

I'd never been big on breakfast, so two Ayds with a cup of coffee were plenty to take me to noon. Then I had Ayds again with a hot drink like the directions say and I'd eat my lunch: maybe cheese and bread and a salad. Dinnertime meant more Ayds and coffee, followed by steak, sometimes chicken cutlet, or tuna fish. There were days even cereal satisfied me. I'll tell you, when I took that Ayds candy, it really helped me cut back on eating. Good thing, too, with 100 pounds to lose.

But let me say this: when you're as fat as I was, it's best just to take each day as it comes. Say to yourself: "I want to lose. I'm going to lose." Then watch how the Ayds plan works. It sure did for me.

Here's something else I did. After I'd been on the Ayds plan for several months, I decided to cheat once in a while on weekends. You know, have a drink with my husband or a couple of cookies. It kind of gave me a lift, so I could get back to losing again on Mondays.

I also started exercising to firm up my skin. Bowling was a favorite of mine. And as my weight came down, my score went up. I even made points with my doctor. When he saw me at 147 pounds, he couldn't get over it. Why, for the first time he was able to feel my bones!

My husband, of course, started bragging and buying me clothes and taking me everywhere. You see, I was a totally new woman. Even my disposition changed. When I lost those 103 pounds, believe me, I lost a whole moody person.

Really, I can't tell you how thankful Bob and I are for the Ayds plan. Like he says: If I'd stayed at 233 pounds at 23, what would I have been like at 40!

Nothing like making a strike! Something I seldom did, until I got down to 130 pounds.

The View from Munich: How the TV

By Allan Frank

"As each Olympiad comes along, I think you're going to see the other nations chipping away at the huge number of gold medals we used to win. They're getting better. We aren't getting worse at all. We're fine. But these other nations are coming up."

Wide World

The athletes (top) are American story-makers Jim Ryun and Bobby Lee Hunter. The exuberant young lady is Miss Munich, a fearless actress named Uschi Badenberg, who climbed to the top of the main Olympic stadium's acrylic glass roof to wave a welcome to the world and its athletes.

MUNICH, West Germany

"In swimming, we've got Mark Spitz," Jim McKay is saying. "He's the kid who went to Mexico announcing he was going to win five or six gold medals—the cockiest kid you ever saw. And he got his lesson down there, I think. He's a different kid now, certainly much more mature. He doesn't even look the same. He's got a mustache and long hair like most kids now. But he could win several gold medals, and that would be a great story—the maturing of an athlete."

That's McKay talking about the Olympic Games that are about to begin in Munich—where McKay, Howard Cosell and Chris Schenkel of the ABC-TV sports team are waiting to bring the live action to the American public. Few have waited more anxiously for this Olympics to begin than McKay and Cosell. And few have gone to the trouble of finding out more about what is liable to happen in Munich. So what do they think will happen?

Here's McKay again, talking about our long-range chances in the Olympics:

"As each Olympiad comes along, I think you're going to see the other nations chipping away at the huge number of gold medals we used to win. They're all getting better. We aren't getting worse at all. We're fine. But these other nations are coming up. Many of them, like the African nations, may do pretty well in track and field. And I think one of the reasons is that they have a lot of Americans coaching now."

Not an especially encouraging picture, unless you're all in favor of spreading the medals around. But Howard Cosell is worried about something else. He says he doesn't want to be called "a cheap nationalist" for his part in the coverage of these 20th Olympics. He was remembering his role in the featherweight boxing finals at Mexico City in 1968:

"I had a difficult time keeping my cool when the American fighter Elbert Robertson was disqualified. You couldn't be nationalistic about it; at the same time, it did seem preeminently unjust."

McKay and Cosell figure that flyweight boxing, the 1,500-meter run and the pole vault may be the best stories of the 20th Olympiad.

Flyweight boxer Bobby Lee Hunter, a black convict from South Carolina, has already sparked controversy. German Olympic committee president Willi Daume said he thought Hunter wouldn't represent the Olympic spirit. Despite a conscious German effort to avoid comparison with the Olympics of the Third Reich and Jesse Owens, Daume's remark has touched off the first tensions of the games.

"It's going to be very interesting to see what kind of welcome Hunter gets and how well he does," says McKay. "The Bobby Hunter thing is a personal, semi-political social story.

"But from a standpoint of pure athletics, I think the biggest story will be whether Jim Ryun can do it," McKay says. Ryun, the world record holder for the mile, had been expected to romp through the 1,500-meter race at Mexico City. Instead, he finished 20 meters behind gold-medal winner Kipshoge Keino of Kenya.

This year, the race will be run at near-sea level, rather than at mile-high Mexico City, and Cosell and McKay expect Ryun to be dueling; particularly with fellow American Dave Wottle. Says Cosell, "Ryun will be most interesting to watch, because he's a highly intense, psychological young man who has lived with the wound of Mexico City for four years. He also deeply resented the way he was treated by the U.S. Olympic officials after he lost. The officials made it clear to Ryun that they thought he had let his country down."

The sportscasters are keen for the pole-vault competition, which promises to produce a new world's record and, perhaps, an end to total U.S. dominance in the event. "If you look back," says McKay, "not that many world records have been set in the Olympics. You're competing so much to win that you forget your pace. There's tremendous tension that may inhibit the guys a little. But a record could happen in the pole vault, because suddenly everybody is going over 18 feet."

Cosell advises, "Watch Bob Seagren [1968 gold medalist], at a relatively advanced age, going against the Swedish lad Kjell Isaksson. It would be extraordinary if the United States lost; yet I suspect it would also be extraordinary if we won it against that Swedish kid."

The newsmen like the gold-medal prospects of Iowa State University's Dan Gable in middleweight freestyle wrestling, and of heavyweight boxer Duane Bobick of Minnesota, but they aren't optimistic about the U.S. soccer or white-water canoeing teams.

Cosell and McKay disagree only on the gold-medal chances of gymnast Kathy Rigby. Cosell says Kathy is lovely, but probably will be defeated by an Eastern European. McKay, who covers gymnastics, says, "Kathy Rigby can be our first female ever to win a gymnastic medal. She hurt her foot, but apparently she's going to be all right."

McKay points out that gymnastics has "a ballet aspect" on television that makes it second only to weight lifting for good TV viewing. "Weight lifting is great," says McKay, "because you get close-ups of these mammoth guys with the cords in their necks standing out. And they let out that scream as they finally lift the damn thing up. Fantastic!"

Lucie Arnaz Says: Stop Thinking of Me as Just a 'Little Lucy'!

By Peer J. Oppenheimer

Lucie Arnaz: "Me? Shy?"

Not long ago, when Lucie (Arnaz) Vandervort and her husband Phil had dinner with her mother, Lucille Ball, the phone rang. "Is this little Lucie?" the caller asked.

"No," said Miss Ball's daughter, who at 5'9" towers over her famous mother. "This is young Lucie. Do you want to talk to my mother?"

Little Lucie – pardon, young Lucie – recalled this episode when I visited her at her tastefully decorated sea-captain-Normandie-early-American house facing the Hillcrest Country Club golf course in Los Angeles. "To most people I'm still little Lucie. Almost everybody I meet starts out by asking me about my mother. The last time I was interviewed, the reporter wanted to know, if my mother wasn't going to appear on the show in the fall season because of her broken leg [Lucille Ball had a skiing accident last winter], would I replace her? No, I told him, because no one could replace her! What's more, I wouldn't want to. I only wish that after five seasons on her show, somebody would be interested in me instead of always asking questions about Mother and Dad and Desi [Desi, Jr. – her brother – two years younger, outgoing, handsome boyfriend of Liza Minnelli]. People even ask me why I don't have red hair. Well, I don't because my mother's hair color comes in a little bottle. Mine is a combination of the auburn hair my mother used to have and my father's onetime black hair."

Lucie is an attractive girl who talks with the same vivaciousness, sense of humor and total self-assurance that I've always appreciated in her mother. And she didn't exactly mind talking about herself. It was her mother's idea that she act on the "Here's Lucy" show, she said. She'd never shown any interest in performing until she was 11, when she began to act in plays in her own miniature theater at home, and later in school.

"Old" Lucy was a strict mother, says young Lucie. "Desi and I were very close. But like most brothers and sisters, we would fight a lot. I remember one time Mom walked in just as we were wrestling on the floor. She

And all so incredibly easy, all so delightfully pleasant, because instead of suffering those awful hungry moments, instead of giving up all the foods you love so well, you actually enjoy fabulous gourmet dishes while your weight is coming off! You actually dine on luscious foods you love to eat while you get slimmer, slimmer, slimmer; You actually pamper yourself with satisfying, super-delicious desserts and between-meal snacks while ugly pounds vanish! Sounds too wonderful to be true and yet it can actually happen to you!

You get up in the morning, take one Eat-Well Regimen dietary supplement capsule and that's all the medication you take all day long! Then you settle down to 3 hearty meals, and between-meal snacks too, if you like! . . . Enjoy roasts, chops, ham, bacon, eggs, bread and plenty of butter, seafood, stews, cheese, mayonnaise, salad and dressing, cream in your coffee or tea—food you love to eat — and all the while, this amazing regimen helps your body burn off those ugly, crippling, health-destroying, figure-marring pounds of fatty tissue!

Actual clinical tests conducted by doctors show substantial losses week after week after week on Eat-Well type regimens. The actual amount you lose depends, of course, on how overweight you are, and on your particular physiology, but it's all so safe, so easy, you'll hardly believe it!

You'll gasp in amazement, stare at yourself in disbelief as day after day you get slimmer, trimmer, more attractive! As day after day you come closer and closer to the safe, normal weight you should be!

NO BRUTAL EXERCISE

Think about it for a moment! You don't take dangerous drugs. You don't go on a starvation diet. You don't strain your heart with brutal exercise, and you don't pour money down the drain on so-called slenderizing massages!

What do you do? You sleep, work, play just like any of your thin friends. You don't starve yourself. You don't go on fad diets. To lose weight, you simply follow the Eat-Well Regimen which consists of two parts.

EAT LUSCIOUS FOODS

First, you take just one single Eat-Well dietary supplement capsule every day. Just one. That's all! And second, you "diet" by eating lots of luscious foods you love — three hearty meals and between-meal snacks—as prescribed by the Eat-Well Regimen. It's just as simple as that, and even though this regimen is so pleasant and so satisfying, your body does melt away ugly pounds of fat day by day, steadily, pleasantly, safely!

PROVED BY DOCTORS

Perhaps this all sounds too wonderful to be true! Perhaps you are wondering how Eat-Well Regimen can perform these seeming miracles when other products that promised so much failed. It's really quite simple. The Eat-Well Regimen is based on a scientific principle which is not the creation of a dietician or a so-called "reducing expert." Eat-Well Regimen is based on a proven medical principle that has been written up by doctors in books and it appears in medical journals. It has been tried and tested and used by countless doctors throughout the world. It is safe and it is effective.

When doctors tested this virtually identical regimen on overweight persons who suffered the usual agonies of ordinary reducing methods, they found that in practically every case, substantial losses were noted! (Ask your doctor.)

Patients lost pound after pound of ugly fat safely, surely and above all, pleasantly! And most important, they lost that weight without suffering constant pangs of hunger, and without depriving themselves of luscious, nourishing food! They simply followed the Eat-Well Regimen and that made the difference.

In short, they lived like human beings! While they ate three delicious meals a day, they were losing weight! While they were enjoying mouth-watering chops, steaks, juicy roasts, sea food, whipped cream, cheeses, fried favorites and all the rest, off came ugly pounds!

With less work, less discomfort, than they ever imagined possible, they ate their fat away! . . . Ate off pounds that had made them miserable for years!

WHAT THIS MEANS TO YOU

After all the products you've tried . . . after all the suffering you've done . . . after all the tortures you've subjected yourself to for year after weary year, and now it's all over!

The practical, intelligent method you secretly prayed for is actually here! This fabulous method, so safe, so easy, so astonishingly effective, is yours to try and to prove to your own satisfaction, without one penny's risk or obligation!

Think of what this can mean to you! Can you imagine the glorious feeling when you live like other people live, eat foods you like without worrying, without feeling guilty, without feeling afraid? The Eat-Well Regimen can do that for you!

Perhaps you have tried other products and been disappointed. Perhaps you have gone so far as to promise yourself that you would never try another reducing product again! . . . But stop and think for a moment . . .

"She still remembers how her mother made her and Desi sit on the couch at their Palm Springs home when she was six, and told them that she and Desi, Sr., were going to separate.... That's as far as she got before Lucie burst into tears...."

watched us for a few seconds, then announced, 'The first one who gets hurt, I'm gonna hit!' That stopped us! We didn't know what she was talking about!

"Of course, as we grew older, I became afraid I'd get hurt if my brother hit me too hard. So I used typical female tricks. Like the day I hit him, and before he could strike back, ran out of the room. One time I wasn't fast enough, and he really let me have it. In total anger, I ran into his room, picked up his drum sticks, and smashed a hole right through his drums!"

Interviewing young Lucie is really a matter of asking a question and then sitting back, because you rarely get a chance to follow up with another. That's why I was so surprised that I'd heard she was shy. So was she. "Who said that?" she cried out. "Me? Shy? Only when I do something professionally, and that's because my brother always outdid me." Desi was only 12 when he won acclaim as a drummer and the central figure of the Dino, Desi and Billy trio that appeared at places like the Hollywood Bowl, and on "The Ed Sullivan Show." Lucie was just awkward 14-year-old trying out for plays at Immaculate Heart High School. "When we went to mother's taping and were introduced to the audience, it was Desi who stood up and bowed and bowed and bowed. I just grinned sheepishly. Oh, how Desi loved all the attention!"

It's not so much what Lucie says as the way she says it that leaves no doubt that she's very fond of her brother, her mother and her father. She feels her parents have done a remarkable job of providing a comparatively normal life for her and Desi, considering their professions and circumstances. She still remembers how her mother made her and Desi sit on the couch at their Palm Springs home when she was six, and told them that she and Desi, Sr., were going to separate, and that they were going to live with her. That's as far as she got before Lucie burst into tears at the thought of never seeing her father again.

"Oh, no," her mother assured her. "You'll see both of us." And her mother more than lived up to her promise.

"Whenever we were with her and either of us said we missed our father, we were promptly shipped off to him; and when we were with him and said we missed our mother, we were just as promptly sent back. As a result, we had two Christmases, two Easters, two birthdays, two of everything. The fact that my parents are still friends shows that divorce doesn't have to be bad all the time."

Young Lucie herself is convinced that her own marriage to actor-producer-director Philip Vandervort is good enough to last.

"To start with, I have a one-track mind, and I know I am going to make my marriage work. I went with Phil for four years before we got married. We met during a segment of the 'Here's Lucy' show, when mother was supposedly going back to high school, and Phil and I played high school students. He took me out for pizza afterward, and that was it!"

Does Lucie ever resent her mother's fame?

"Perhaps sometimes. Let's face it, being Lucille Ball's daughter makes things more difficult for me in some ways. I have so much to live up to!" She stopped, then smiled. "On the other hand, if I weren't her daughter, I'd probably still be in acting school right now, trying to learn the business and hoping for a break someday!"

LYNDA JOHNSON ROBB
She won't sell coffee

Lynda Johnson Robb doesn't drink coffee because Mother told her it would "stunt her growth," confides a New York advertising-agency memo that mysteriously appeared on our desk. Although hardly heartwarming news to the admen, who hoped to entice her into appearing in coffee commercials, there is a silver lining. She's "most amenable" to other commercial offers, and on the phone sounds like the "perfect young housewife consumer." She is, they purr, "totally believable," and, in fact, embodies "old-fashioned integrity in a contemporary package." Among other personalities previously unavailable for commercials, "but now expressing interest for a $100,000 fee," are Ben Gazzara, Danny Kaye, Rex Harrison, James Bronson, Kirk Douglas and Frank McGee. And, the secret memo reveals, Richard Burton's interest could be aroused for $150,000. Still unavailable: Jimmy Stewart, Michael Caine, Peter Falk, Ingrid Bergman, Robert Redford.

HOSPITAL "LEMONADE PARTY"
Helping kids before they're patients

Remember how scary going to the hospital was when you were a child? Parents mean well when they say, "It won't hurt," but the truth is, it usually does. To make a stay in the Primary Children's Hospital in Salt Lake City as happy as possible, the nursing staff originated a weekly "lemonade party" for soon-to-be-admitted kids. The partygoers get a hospital ID bracelet, and take a tour of the X-ray and recovery rooms and wards. They start to smile when they find out that patients can eat breakfast in bed and watch television. They try on surgical gowns, masks and hats, listen to each other's heartbeats, then head for home with the news that sometimes it does hurt, but that everyone in the hospital is there to help them get well.

Are you a pro at setting goals and objectives, whether personal or business? "Ask the non-pro about his personal objectives and he'll say something UNMEASURABLE and probably pious: 'I want to be a good husband and father'; 'I'd like to do my part in improving the world.' The pro is specific: 'I want to provide my children with the education they need, and give each $50,000 for a financial start in life.' It's in business objectives that the difference between the two approaches becomes blatantly apparent. The pro never sets an objective that doesn't include a measurement. The non-pro wouldn't dream of including one. 'Improve customer relations' is a non-pro objective. 'Reduce customer complaints by 23 percent in 12 months' is a pro goal, easily understood. Are you a pro?" From "The Art of Getting Your Own Sweet Way," by Philip Crosby (McGraw-Hill, $7.95).

ARMOUR'S ARMOURY
By Richard Armour

HAND SOME

Hand-me-down clothing was what, in my youth,
Was handed from father to son.
But sons are now taller than fathers, in truth,
And of hand-me-downs now there are none.

What clothing of fathers they wear, such as ties
(And these are surrendered on call),
In view of the way sons have sprouted in size
Are now handed up, if at all.

Applicant: "Well, the work is much harder when you don't know anything about it." —Thomas LaMance

When a Russian peasant visited the Moscow zoo for the first time, he was surprised to see a big bear and a lamb in the same cage.

"How can you keep those two together?" asked the peasant.

"That," said the guide, "is peaceful coexistence." Then he added: "But of course, we have to put in a new lamb every morning." —Dorothea Kent

Kids see life differently. Send contributions to "Child," Family Weekly, 641 Lexington Ave., N.Y., N.Y. 10022. $10 if used—none returned.

Recently, my 17-year-old brother won an award, and his picture was in our small-town newspaper. I went to several stores to get enough papers to send the picture to friends and relatives out of town. When I got in the car for the last time, my five-year-old son asked, "Mommy, why did you buy all those papers?"

"After thinking this over for a moment my son asked, "Why, Mommy? Don't you want anybody else to see it?"

THIS WEEK'S TOP PRIZE QUESTION:

A GLOWWORM DOESN'T BURN YOU IF YOU CATCH IT - IT MAKES ITS LIGHT WITHOUT HEAT. THE GLOWWORM'S LIGHT COMES FROM SPECIAL JUICES THAT IT MAKES IN ITS BODY. WHEN IT WANTS TO TURN ON ITS LIGHTS, THE GLOWWORM MIXES THE JUICES WITH AIR. THE AIR MAKES THE JUICES GLOW LIKE LANTERNS ON THE GLOWWORM'S BODY.

Polly's

DEAR POLLY — I used to have trouble with the end of my plastic tape sticking to the roll, but now I stick a square plastic bread fastener on the end every time I cut off a piece of tape to use. —ROSALIE

DEAR POLLY—One of the best gifts I know of for a bride or bride-to-be is a tool box equipped with a hammer, screw driver, pliers, packages of assorted nails and screws, etc. A few stick-on flower decals could be put on the box to make it more feminine-looking, and less appealing to a hubby who might be inclined to borrow it.—LINDA

DEAR POLLY—When I take a trip I always make an inventory (in duplicate) of what I have along. I leave one copy at home. If my luggage should be lost I know just what was in the bags. Also, such a list is helpful in deciding what to take on another similar trip.—MRS. M. E.

DEAR POLLY — If you happen to have an old child's-size blackboard, paint the frame the color of your kitchen and nail it to one of the walls. Divide the board into three parts—one for the grocery list, one for tasks for various family members to do and the last for special events.—SANDY

DEAR POLLY—When storing washable clothing or other cloth articles be sure they are free of starch, as this seems to rot the threads.—HAZEL

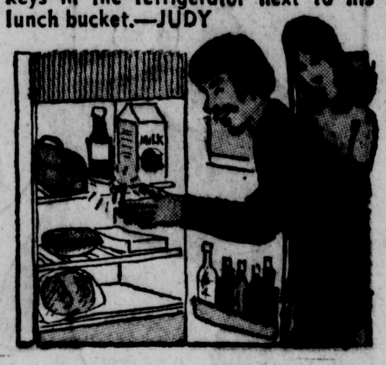
DEAR POLLY — My husband often used to go off to work without his lunch. I solved the problem by putting his car keys in the refrigerator next to his lunch bucket.—JUDY



DEAR POLLY — To eliminate having to run outside to shak the dust out of your mop, take a large plastic trash bag, put this over the mop, hold the opening together close to the mop stick and shake. All the dust is trapped in the bag. The bag can be emptied and reused, or just finish dumping your other trash in it. This eliminates unsightly dust flying around outside, and your neighbors will love you for it.—MRS. L. R. T.

DEAR POLLY — I think I have a safe and efficient way to wash small and delicate pieces of bric-a-brac. Fill a plastic bag about one-half or one-third full of warm mild soapy suds. Put only one piece into the bag and gently move the bag to and fro for a few minutes. It will be sparkling clean, as the water swishes into all the delicate crevices which ar so difficult to do by hand.—AMELIA

DEAR POLLY—To insert shields in dresses more easily, sew a small tab on the edges of the sleeves and pin the shields to them instead of to the seams of the dresses.—A. M.
